Representations to Ottawa

Army Huts Sought In Housing Crisis

Edmonton city council Tuesday night instructed Mayor John W. Fry to make personal representations to the Dominion government seeking temporary use of military huts at Prince of Wales Armory to relieve the serious housing shortage expected here when notices to quit present accommodation become effective on May 1.

The motion to seek use of these huts was made following representations made by the Edmonton Ex-Servicemen's Rehabilitation committee. Spokesmen for the committee were W. J. Williams, secretary, Canadian Legion, and Mrs. A. Goodall.

Mr. Williams told council that he had personal knowledge of 17 families, all with the family head serving in the armed forces, that would be forced to find alternative accommodation within the next month. He said there was no accommodation available for these families, and suggested that the only remedy seemed to be a "freezing of the occupancy."

He said that finances of these families did not permit them to take homes being built under the wartime housing scheme here, and added that in many cases where accommodation within the families' means was available the owners would not rent.

The suggestion that the huts at the Prince of Wales armory might be used as temporary accommoda-

Refinancing Of $9,000,000 Is Underway

Negotiations are now being carried on in New York by John Hodgson, city commissioner, for the refinancing of approximately $9,000,000 of Edmonton debentures held in the United States, it was reported at Tuesday night's city council meeting.

Mayor John W. Fry will leave Edmonton Thursday evening for New York to take part in the negotiations.

In a communication from Mr. Hodgson submitted to council it was pointed out that if present negotiations are successful it will be necessary that the city debentures be signed, sealed and delivered in New York.

This will necessitate a duplicate seal of the city being sent to New York, as the present seal is in use continually in Edmonton for documentary purposes.

City council authorized the making of a duplicate seal which will be taken to New York by Mayor Fry in anticipation of success in the refinancing negotiations.

In his communication to council Mr. Hodgson intimated that negotiations will be concluded probably by May 10 or 11.

Japanese Troops 'Dying in Droves'

KANDY, Ceylon, April 26.—(AP)—Japanese jungle troops are desperately attacking road and rail blocks established in central Burma by Allied "Chindits," air-borne troops, and are "coming in to the attack like a boxer with his head down" and dying in droves, an Allied observer said today.

At the same time British forces continued to tighten their grip on the Imphal-Kohima area which had been threatened by a Japanese invasion of India designed to cut the Bengal-Assam railroad, Allied supply line to China and north Burma.

The communique said British forces yesterday captured the Mapao hill feature north of the Imphal plain, inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy.

Playing "Movies" Is Nearly Fatal To Winnipeg Boy

WINNIPEG, April 26.—(CP)—Playing "movies" nearly cost the life of Billy McColl, 13, here last night. Putting on a hangman's act in the backyard of his home, the youth was left suspended from a tree, a rope looped around his neck. He was taken to hospital where his condition today was reported as "only fair."

U.S. Bombers In Heavy Raid On Brunswick

LONDON, April 26—Nearly 500 heavy bombers of the United States Eighth Air Force began the 10th straight day of the pre-invasion assault on western Europe today with a raid on Brunswick, main German air base guarding the approaches to Berlin.

The Berlin radio said the American bombers sweeping deep into Germany were engaged in violent air battles, and struck in force at Osnabruck as well as Brunswick, 100 miles to the east.

Strong formations of Allied fighter planes flew with the heavy bombers attacking Germany for the third straight day, comprisinga task force of well over 1,000 planes.

SWARM OVER CHANNEL

Hundreds of Allied medium, light and fighter-bombers swarmed across the channel in relays to maintain the assault on the section of Germany's "Atlantic wall" across the neck of the channel.

Despite Nazi propaganda reports of fierce resistance by German fighters, the first returning crewmen reported light counter-thrusts as they bombed Brunswick through a cloud cover.

The pre-invasion bombardment of western Europe roared through its 10th day after Mosquito bombers of the Royal Air Force struck by night at Cologne, industrial capital of the Rhineland, suffering no loss.

F.D.R. Supporters Win in Primaries

WASHINGTON, April 26—(AP)—Roosevelt fourth-termers bowled over their first tangible opposition in the Massachusetts presidential primary election yesterday, while Pensylvania Republicans indicated through "write-in" votes that Governor E. Dewey is their overwhelming choice for the Republican presidential nomination.

President Roosevelt himself received a fair-sized "write-in" endorsements in the Pennsylvania Republican primary while picking up unchallenged 72 more pledged Democratic delegates. Gov. Dewey is apparently assured of Pennsylvania's 75 delegates.

Denmark Isolated

Eire's Shipping to Lisbon Stopped in Invasion Move

By J. EDWARD MURRAY

LONDON, April 26.—Eire's shipping to Lisbon, it was understood in Dublin today, has been halted and strife-torn Denmark was isolated as both the Allies and the Axis stepped up their preparations for the battle of Europe.

Dublin advices said British authorities were understood to have refused to issue navicerts to Eire's vessels bound for Lisbon, which if true would mean a break in one of Eire's last links with the continent.

The Allies already have virtually cut Eire off from the outside world to prevent any leak of information on military operations preparatory to the invasion.

Meanwhile, a broadcast German communique reported that heavy Nazi bomber formations last night attacked concentrations in the harbors of southeast England.

King George received Prime Minister Winston Churchill at Buckingham Palace for their second conference within 24 hours.

Stockholm reports said Germany had completed the isolation of Denmark by cutting telegraph communications with Sweden 48 hours after suspendng telephone service.

The reports told of sabotage and violence mounting hourly in Denmark, with German armored cars patrolling the streets of Copenhagen and "shooting incidents" in several places.

Curtail Work

Reduce Staff Wheat Acreage Board in City

Substantial reduction in the staff of the Edmonton office of the Wheat Acreage Reduction Board is being made as a result of the discontinuance of wheat acreage reduction payments for 1944.

Payment of 1943 bonus is nearly complete, and the staff has been reduced steadily for several weeks. Of an original staff of more than 100 employees, approximately 50 are now working on the remainder of the claims, and this staff will be reduced further. Mr. Barrie said.

Staff of the treasury branch whose main work was approval of wheat acreage claims, also is being reduced.

R. F. McGregor, Regina, director of the wheat acreage reduction program, arrived here Wednesday to confer with officials on finding a new location for the board's offices and to discuss the curtailment details.

Other officials present for the conference are: E. Smythe, senior

Board Reduces Pipeline Rate

The pipeline rate on oil between Turner Valley and Calgary has been reduced from 9½ to 7½ cents a barrel in a decision handed down by the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners, it was announced Wednesday by G. M. Blackstock, K.C., board chairman.

The decision also reduces the rate of return on a company's investment from 9½ to 8 per cent per annum.

In its decision the board expressed the hope that the reduction in oil transportation costs will be passed on to the producers of oil in the Turner Valley field, who now pay the transportation costs.

The board report setting out the decisions is 104 pages in length. It covers a hearing which began in Calgary last November, and continued for 25 days.

LONDON, April 26.—A British-Canadian naval squadron led by the new British cruiser H.M.S. Black Prince intercepted a German destroyer flotilla at the western entrance to the English channel before dawn today and sank one enemy warship under a storm of gunfire and torpedoes.

The enemy warships, comprising three to four destroyers of the new Elbing class, were sighted off Batz Island, near the western end of the Breton peninsula, and were engaged immediately.

An admiralty communique reported that the Nazi destroyers immediately threw off a smoke sceen and fled toward the French coast at high speed.

The composite squadron, consisting of at least one other Royal Navy warship in addition to the Black Prince, fired star shells to illuminate the fleeing enemy vessels and opened up with their guns, scoring several direct hits.

The Nazi gunners countered with heavy fire that inflicted superficial damage and light casualties on the pursuing Allied warships and attempted unsuccessfully to torpedo the Black Prince.

King Again Inspects Canuck Army Units

By ROSS MUNRO

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, April 26—(CP)—The King has inspected thousands more Canadian second-front troops—his second pre-invasion visit to Canadian camps this spring.

He now has seen all the Canadian army troops in England who will be going into Europe when D-Day comes.

Arriving by Royal train at a station in the centre of the Canadian camps, His Majesty, wearing a serge army uniform without greatcoat, was met by Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, commander of the Canadian army, and several senior officers from the formations he was to visit.

While the tour was kept secret until his arrival, 300 school children and housewives in the town, sensing that royalty was arriving, crowded around the station entrance and gave the King a welcome.

Then he drove into the countryside and in a large field inspected massed troops drawn up in an open square.

The King and the official party lunched at staff headquarters and in the afternoon His Majesty walked several more miles through lines of soldiers standing three deep.

Anzacs Remember Glorious Dead of Gallipoli

Anzac Day was commemorated here Tuesday when between 300 and 400 Australian and New Zealand aircrewmen in training at No. 3 "M" Depot marched to the Cenotaph and laid a wreath thereon, in memory of the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the Australian-New Zealand Army Corps who died in the landing on the Gallipoli Peninsula, April 25, 1915, and in the terrific battles of Lone Pine, Sari Bair and elsewhere in the campaign. In the above picture the airmen are drawn up in front of the Cenotaph. Flt.-Lt. Minto Swan, padre of No. 3 "M" Depot, is shown conducting the brief service. PO. E. C. Siddells, R.N.Z.A.F., was in command of the Anzacs. Group Capt. R. M. Smith, commanding officer No. 3 "M" Depot, was among those attending the service.

Victory Loan Total Mounts To $131,276,000 Second Day

OTTAWA, April 26.—(CP)—The National War Finance Committee announced today that yesterday's purchases of Sixth Victory Loan bonds totalled $56,999,850, bringing the loan total at the end of the second day of the three-week drive to $131,276,000.

Total for Monday, first day of the $1,200,000,000 campaign, was $74,276,150.

Yesterday's total was approximately $2,000,000 down from the corresponding day of the Fifth loan.

"Due to the change in our reporting system, comparison is difficult", loan officials said, "but the lag would appear to be in purchases of individual Canadians. This loan, for instance, we already have more than $7,000,000 reported from the troops overseas. We did not have this total until much later in the last loan."

JUST AT AVERAGE

They said subscriptions to date are just about equalling the average which must be maintained. Eleven per cent of the canvassing time has passed and 11 per cent of the minimum objective has been achieved.

Edmonton reported good progress, with total purchases of $441,550, 8.65 of objective, at the end of the second day.

At Vancouver, Mrs. Patricia Lusk won $1,100 at a theatre drawing and invested half of her winnings in bonds for herself and the

Britain Won't Cede U.S. Bases

LONDON, April 26—Prime Minister Winston Churchill rejected flatly today the recommendation of an American congressional committee that Great Britain cede some of the British bases now being operated under lease by the United States armed forces.

"There is not the slightest question of cession of British territories, not the slightest," Churchill told the commons.

His statement was made in reply to a question by Laborite Rhys Davies in connection with the U.S. house committee's recommendation that the United States acquire permanent possession of bases leased from Britain.

"The house may rest assured that there have been no developments calling for review by the government or the house of the existing position in this matter, which remains unchanged," Churchill said.

Davies asked for assurance that commons would be given an opportunity to debate the matter if a request for permanent cession of the bases should be received from Washington.

"I will welcome all the aid I can receive from so valiant a quarter," Churchill reported.

Planning Alaska Oil Exploration

2,300 Airmen Lost by Allies In Offensive

By W. W. HERCHER

LONDON, April 26—(AP)—The 11-day-old assault on Hitler's continental fortress, the world's greatest sustained aerial bombardment, has cost the Allies 2,300 airmen.

It has cost 373 planes valued at approximately $50,000,000. Figuring the value of the aircraft lost and the value of the technical educations given the airmen lost with them, the offensive has cost the Allies at least $100,000,000.

STAGGERING FIGURES

The cost sweeps beyond that into staggering figures when the wages of airmen and ground crews, the value of bombs, ammunition and gasoline are added, along with airdrome maintenance, aircraft repairs and hospital treatment.

The Allied command considers the cost—the plane loss is slightly more than one per cent of the 33,000 attacking aircraft of all types—a reasonable price for the results obtained.

More than 700 fighters of the enemy's precious front-line strength have been destroyed, and damage has been done to Axis air plants, fields, rail junctions and coastal fortifications which may knock months off the war.

MAJORITY PRISONERS

Of the 2,300 missing airmen most are believed to be prisoners of war and interned for the duration in neutral Sweden and Switzerland.

The offensive has had three main objectives: Destruction of the German air force in the air and aground; disorganization of the German military railroad and transportation system; and softening of the Atlantic Wall.

The greatest weight of bombs has been aimed at the transportation network behind the Atlantic Wall and at rail arteries feeding Nazi forces trying to stem the Russian advance into the Balkans.

Fuehrer Changes Tune!

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—Talk of "total war and its victims" is among tabooed subjects at Hitler's headquarters in Berchtesgaden, according to an article in the Zurich weekly Er und Sie (He and She) reported yesterday by the Berne radio and recorded by CBS.

"Recently at the time of a dinner offered in honor of a Croatian delegation," the article was quoted, "a guest paid no attention to the prohibition on total war and started telling of the frightful consequences of the bombing attacks.

"Icy silence fell upon the group. Hitler stopped his meal and indicated he wanted to leave the table. But at the last moment an outburst was avoided and the dinner went on its normal course again."

Member Asks Full Reports On Parliament

OTTAWA, April 26—(CP)—J. F. Pouliot (L.-Temiscouata) asked yesterday in the Commons how "it is that there are members of the information board who go around to the press with scissors, telling them not to publish this and that which honorable members have said?"

(Mr. Pouliot later told The Canadian Press that he was referring to the Canadian wartime information board.)

Speaking during discussion of the report of the committee on rules and standing orders, Mr. Pouliot said he was "not making complaint against the two agencies, The Canadian Press and the British United Press, but there are those who do not want these reports to be published, and it is these very gentlemen who complain afterwards that members are not doing their duty."

FIRST INFORM READERS

"Let them inform first their readers of what we are doing, and afterwards they will be in a position to criticisze what we have done, and their readers will be sufficiently informed to give a fair judgment."

Mr. Pouliot said that the rights of private members were being curtailed "Because of the fear that the government and the opposition have of the yellow press, which has been complaining, not of the government, nor of the opposition, but of the role of parliament.'

"I defy the press tycoons of Montreal or anywhere else to discuss that matter with a member of parliament who knows what the rights of a member of parliament are . . ."

The rules of the house should be amended to put all members on an equal footing.

"Then," he said, "let us have enough esprit de corps to join together to censure those journalists who spend their time in throwing contempt on members of parliament."

Reduce Staff Wheat Acreage Board in City

treasury officer, H. J. Hamilton, accountant, both of Regina, and E. T. Brown, district resident architect from Calgary.

TO MAIN OFFICE

With the completion of the Wheat Acreage reduction payments it is expected the 100,000 files on hand at the local office will be transferred to the main office at Regina.

With the skeleton staff which will remain in the employ of the board, to handle prairie farm assistance work it will be necessary to find smaller office space, and officials are surveying possibility of obtaining office space in the Empire Block.

Nearly $25,000,000 has been paid out in wheat acreage reduction bonuses to Alberta farmers since the program came into effect in 1941.

In 1941 total of $10,259,769 was paid to 64,963 Alberta farmers in W.A.R. payemnts. In addition to this $3,392,498 kas paid the same year in Prairie Farm Assistance Act and $5,625,498 in Prairie Farm Income payments.

In 1942 a total of $5,778,202 was paid to 55,671 farmers under the W.A.R. program and in 1943 to date 38,501,648 has been paid to 57,643 farmers. Approximately 62,000 farmers made application for payments this year and the remainder which Mr. Barrie termed as "difficult claims" are being cleaned up as quickly as possible. These are claims with conflicting information which require more thorough investigation.

For 1943 another $2,217,660 has been paid to date under the Prairie Farm Assistance act to 8,280 farmers in Alberta.

Russians Open Big Offensive On South Front

By ROBERT MUSEL
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

LONDON, April 26—The German high command reported today that the Red Army had opened a big offensive on a broad front in the lower Dnestr Valley, apparently signalizing the end of the lull on the eastern battle line.

A Berlin communique reporting the first major action on the Russian front since the Soviets clamped a siege arc against Sevastopol eight days ago acknowledged "local penetrations by Soviet spearheads, but claimed they were "checked or eliminated."

Moscow gave no immediate confirmation of the reported Dnestr offensive, perhaps in keeping with the Soviet policy of waiting for the development of a major operation before announcing it.

"DEFENSIVE SUCCESS"

"On the lower Dnestr the Soviets went over to the attack on a broad front," the German communique said. "Our troops, supported by luftwaffe fc nations, achieved complete defensive success in hard fighting. Local penetrations were checked or eliminated in determined counter-attacks. The enemy lost numerous tanks."

It was the first Nazi report of a large-scale Russian attack since the conclusion of the short-lived Crimean campaign except for the reduction of Sevastopol.

The Nazi report indicated that General Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Third Army of the Ukraine had regrouped and launched a new action after its swift drive which cleared the southern Ukraine of the German invaders, and now was pressing on into Bessarabia to join Marshal Ivan S. Konev's Second Army in the drive into Romania.

Berlin also reported Russian counter-attacks between the Carpathians and upper Dnestr, indicating that the Red Army had regained the initiative in the lower corner of pre-war Poland after breaking up German attacks aimed at disrupting Marshal Gregory Zhukov's preparations for a new drive.

The Nazis, after reporting heavy attacks by Russian forces besieging Sevastopol, said that the assaults yesterday were limited to local thrusts.

Moscow dispatches said the siege of Sevastopol now had taken the form of a massive bombardment by artillery and planes, closely resembling the final phase of the Allied drive against the Germans in Sicily.

Soviet front dispatches said Russian planes were attacking day and night, concentrating on the port area and transports trying to evacuate the Black Sea port.

the first exchange of fire, was caught by the Canadian destroyers Haida and Athabascan and riddled with shellfire at point-blank range.

CONVERGING FIRE

The British destroyer Ashanti and the Canadian destroyer Huron also closed in on the stricken enemy warship and it finally was sent to the bottom under their converging fire.

The remainder of the German force made good its escape, although it was indicated that some, if not all, had been hit and damaged in the battle.

All units of the attacking Allied force returned safely to port, the admiralty said.

The Canadian destroyer Athabascan was under the command of Lt. Commander John Hamilton Stubbs, D.S.O. Commander H. G. Wolfe was on the bridge of the Haida while the Huron was commanded by Lt. Commander H. S. Rayner.

Death Toll 16 In Montreal's Bomber Crash

MONTREAL, April 26—(CP)—Smoke still curled from a shattered block of tenement houses today, as investigators sought to determine what caused an R.A.F. transport plane to crash into the block yesterday with a toll of at least 16 dead.

The investigators had little to work on, so hard did the Liberator bomber hit and so fiercely did the wreckage burn. A fragment of wing, a piece of the tail assembly, the shattered parts of a motor were all that was left of the plane which a few minutes before the crash had set off on a trans-Atlantic flight.

ELDERLY MAN MISSING

Nnmbered among the known dead were the five crew members of the big plane, three of them of Polish nationality, a policeman last seen entering a blazing building, and nine residents of the demolished tenement block including an 18-months-old baby. An elderly man was listed as missing and three other persons were in critical condition in hospital.

The devastation among closely packed tenement houses in the Griffintown district close to old Bonaventure station caused experienced R.A.F. personnel to remark that the damage was about what might have been expected had a land mine fallen on the spot.

Four of the known dead were women whose home collapsed like card-houses around them when the plane struck and exploded, sending flames 75 feet into the air. A fifth was a three-year-old boy whose mother was also killed.

Death of the boy, Jimmy Wells, and his mother and his mother's sister-in-law, left two brothers, James and Walter Wells, without families. Both men were at work at the time of the tragedy. Others to die were Constable Philippe Lemieux, Mrs. Victor Geoffrion, Mrs. Delia Dowling, Aurele Larochelle, Victorien Marchand and T. H. Hebert.

The plane struck buildings facing on Shannon street and intersecting Ottawa street, two blocks south and a block west of old Bonaventure station. The death list included residents of both streets.

Maximum Prices For Sausage Cut Four Cents Pound

OTTAWA, April 26.—(CP)—The Prices Board announced today that effective toorrow retail ceiling prices for fresh sausage will be reduced by about four cents per pound.

Board officials said the reduction in maximum prices will not affect all stores since many retailers now are selling below the ceiling, and in some instances the reduction will be less than four cents per pound.

The announcement said the reduction in prices has been accomplished by lowering wholesale prices by two cents per pound and cutting the maximum retail mark-up from 30 per cent to 25 per cent.

Strong Opposition

Members Urged to Reject Amendment to House Rules Making Voting Compulsory

By DARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, April 26.—(CP)—A. W. Neill (Ind., Comox-Alberni) urged the Commons last night not to adopt a proposed amendment to the house's standing rules which would oblige members to vote when a question was put. Mr. Neill moved that the proposed amendment be changed to read that a member should not be obliged to vote.

Stanley Knowles (C.C.F., Winnipeg, N. Centre) said approval of Mr. Neill's suggestion might mean there might be more absentations from voting than in the past. He said he felt it was his duty to vote on matters put before the house.

Angus MacInnis (C.C.F., Vancouver East) said the amendment which was not acted upon before the house adjourned, was "about as crazy an amendment as ever I heard of." He said he felt it meant that members were not to do what they were sent to parliament to perform.

AGAINST RESIGNATION

Mr. Neill suggested earlier that defeat of the government on a bill should not mean that the government had to resign.

The suggestions were made after Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative house leader, said the reading of speeches should be discouraged. He said that a six-hour daily sitting of the house might be arranged, with the sittings starting earlier than 3 p.m. and ending after 6 p.m. The house now sits from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. with a two-hour dinner recess.

At the afternoon session discussions of procedure delayed immediate study of the amendments to the existing standing rules and orders governing proceedings.

Defence Minister Ralston, acting as house leader in the absence of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, and Speaker J. A. Glen said the introduction merely contained suggestions which the committee had advanced for study. What the house should concern itself with were the amendments.

CONFUSION REMAINS

The advice failed to clear up the confusion on procedure and when six o'clock adjournment came little had been said about the actual amendments.

Mr. Neill said Col. Ralston could explain the recommendations of the committee "the way he likes, but I am not going to be deprived of my rights, and there are others here who share my views."

One of the committee's recommendations in the introduction was that "when there is reason to believe that debate will be protracted, parties and groups recognized in the house shall confer and make arrangements either for allotting days or laying any plan for saving time whilst protecting freedom of speech for every representative of the people who sits in this house."

Such a procedure would be "quite illegal," said Mr. Neill.

(Under existing rules, speeches of private members are restricted to 40 minutes, but the Prime Minister and leader of the opposition are not limited. The committee recommended that the time of private members be further restricted and that they be allowed only 20 minutes.)

AGAINST VOTING PLAN

Tom Reid (L., New Westminster) said he was against compelling a member to vote if he was in the house during a division.

When a vote was taken, the record of Hansard showed how a man voted.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative house leader, said there should be no great curtailments of members' rights in speaking for their constituents. It was better for speeches to be made in the house than in the "cellars of the nation," as an explosion might result without an outlet eing allowed.

Mr. Graydon said he believed a member should not be forced to vote during a division in the house. There was no compulsory voting for the electors, and a different set of rules should not be applied to members.

URGES SOME CHANGE

Mr. Neill said he believed that some change should be made in the manner of voting in the house.

The defeat of the government on a particular bill should not mean that the government had to resign. At present many members voted against their conscience because they feared the government would be defeated and they would be faced with another election.

The rule should be amended so that the government could only be defeated on a specific vote of confidence motion.

Mr. Neill said he agreed with Mr. Graydon that there should be no reading of speeches in the house.

Mr. Neill said a member must not vote if his private pecuniary interests were involved. The member's sense of honor would compel him not to vote in such circumstances. But if he did not vote, under the proposed amendment, he could be named by the speaker and "committed to the tower," which would mean he would be escorted from the chamber and doubtless well cared for in a hotel or elsewhere while the session lasted.

Rev. E. G. Hansell (S.C., Macleod) said he believed the government had taken to itself more power than parliament had intended it should have.

Mr. Hansell said members who did not wish to vote in a division had plenty of time in which to leave the chamber. If the amendment was approved he said he believed it would end the custom of "pairing," under which members of opposing parties reach an agreement for one to abstain from voting if the other was not in the house.

POSITION NOT CLEAR

Speaker J. A. Glen said under existing rules it was not clear whether a member was obliged to vote or not to vote.

It was because of this ambiquity that the committee had recommended that members be obliged to vote when in the house while a vote was being recorded.

The amendments were recommended by the committee, but it was up to the house to decide what the rules should be.

Mrs. D. W. Nielsen (Unity-North Battleford) said that private members should not be forced to vote.

"Now and again it may happen that a private member has not enough information to make it possible to vote according to conscience." She said she had found herself in that position once.

"If I had of voted on that occasion I would have been voting blindly," she said. "I would prefer to be named by the speaker and forced to leave the chamber than to vote blindly on any measure."

Ex-Inspector Is Subpoenaed By House Group

OTTAWA, April 26 — (CP) — James Clark, a former chief inspector of the Canada-United Kingdom inspection board, has been subpoenaed to appear before a commons war expenditure subcommittee Wednesday, it was learned last night.

Mr. Clark, whose charges in respect to army boots were under examination by the sub-committee, walked out of a meeting yesterday after stating through a solicitor that its sessions should be open not secret.

H. R. Jackman (P.C.—Toronto Rosedale), R. H. McGregor (P.C.—York East) and F. D. Shaw (S.C.—Red Deer) also walked out, stating they protested the inquiry into Mr. Clark's charges being conducted in secret.

INFERIORITY CHARGED

Mr. Clark had charged that about 1,000,000 pairs of army boots were made of inferior materials.

Manley Edwards (L. — Calgary West) confirmed last night that a subpoena calling on Mr. Clark to appear at the sub-committee meeting had been served.

When the war expenditures committee was established this year, Progressive Conservative members moved to have meetings in open session except when security was involved. Liberal members voted for secret sittings.

Mr. Clark and his solicitor were understood to have attended yesterday's meeting and to have said they would give evidence only in open session. In this attitude they were supported by Mr. McGregor and Mr. Shaw.

The committee has a membership of eight with Mr. Edwards as chairman. The Liberal majority on the committee favored sittings in secret, and Mr. McGregor and Mr. Shaw withdrew, along with Mr. Clark and his solicitor.

DISCUSSED IN HOUSE

Defence Minister Ralston discussed the Clark charges in the House on Feb. 24 and said that between May, 1940 and Dec. 16, 1941, changed specifications for boots had been in effect because of a shortage of certain materials. About 1,000,000 pairs of boots were delivered under these specifications, up to the standard required.

Another charge had been that 30,000 pairs of army boots were made by one contractor on lasts contrary to specifications. To this the inspection board replied that one contractor had been permitted to use certain bootmaking practices over a limited period.

Col. Ralston told the house he was prepared to see that papers in the case were provided for the war expenditures committee or any other inquiry authority.

The war expenditures committee later decided to examine the matter and referred it to the subcommittee.

Britain's Stand On Empire Policy Is Said Selfish

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, April 26—(CP)—Britain's attitude toward the Empire, expressed in last week's two-day empire debate in the house of commons in London, found favor with many South African newspapers but some, opposed to Prime Minister Jan Christian Smuts' government, called Britain's stand selfish.

The Johannesburg Die Transvaler, an Afrikaans opposition newspaper, said: "Canada already is economically bound up with the United States. Australia will apparently go the same way and probably New Zealand also. For Britain's sake, South Africa must isolate herself within the British Empire."

OTTAWA, April 26—(CP)—The Canadian government had spent $856,983,614 on the establishment of 446 war industries including aircraft plants, shipbuilding, munitions, explosives, material such as steel and rubber and housing.

This information was contained in a return tabled yesterday in the Commons by State Secretary McLarty for Joseph Noseworthy (C.C.F.-York South). The return also showed that the government had advanced $131,014,586 to 368 privately-operated war industries.

A total of 8,651 persons successfully applied to mobilization boards for postponement of military service on grounds of conscientious objection up to Jan. 31, Labor Minister Mitchell said in a return tabled for T. C. Douglas (C.C.F.-Weyburn).

The return also showed that 1,034 applicants were sent to alternative service work camps and 1,511 were refused status as concientious objectors.

Plan Negotiations

Majority Vote of Council Places Ceiling of $175,000 On Civic Wage Increases

City council indicated Tuesday night by a majority vote that it was prepared to grant wage increases of approximately $175,000 to civic employees, and instructed the city commissioners, with A. A. Campbell, city comptroller, to meet with representatives of the Civic Federation and employees to negotiate a wage scale on the basis of the communication from the federation and the commissioners' report.

The resolution setting the ceiling on wage increases at $175,000 was made by Ald. R. Winslow Hamilton, and that ordering the resumption of collective bargaining between the employees and the commissioners was made by Ald. H. D. Ainlay.

Following the passage of the motion setting the wage increase ceiling at $175,000, President Brown of the Federation of Civic Employees stated that the three unions which had tentatively accepted the proposal of wage increases similar to the recent Calgary settlement were withdrawing their acceptance.

MOTIONS REPEATED

A motion by Ald. James H. Ogilvie that the full cost-of-living bonus of $18.50 be paid and made part of the basic wage was defeated, as were amendments to this motion submitted by Ald. Hamilton, and Ald. Sidney Parsons.

A motion by Ald. C. E. Gariepy that a straight increase of $10 monthly be given on the present salary and cost-of-living bonus payments was defeated also.

The Commissioners reported that the last time the question of wage adjustments was considered by council, the following resolution was passed:

"That the council offer its employees the Calgary award as a cost-of-living bonus except that the employees of the telephone department other than clerical, be offered the scale of the Provincial Telephones, and that stenographers be paid at the same rate as telephone operators; the offer being subject to the recommendations contained in the commissioners report, and to date from first of January, 1944."

Since the council's offer has been considered by all the civic unions with the result that the offer of council to increase the monthly cost-of-living bonus from $8.65 to $18.50 has been accepted with provisos by three of the unions, the Civic Service Unoin No. 52 covering the city hall staff and other clerical help, Federal Union No. 30 covering most of the skilled and unskilled labor in the engineer's, waterworks and garage departments, and by the Electrical Workers Union No. 1007.

INCREASES REQUESTED

Street Railway Union No. 569 requests an increase from $8.65 to $23.65 per month, and the Firefighters' Union and the Police Association request an increase from $8.65 to $28.65, the report stated.

"In regard to conditions contained in the last commissioners' report it will be noted that the unions do not wish that the acceptance or rejection of council's offer should be contingent on approval by all the unions. They all believe that any increases granted, including the existing cost-of-living bonus, should be incorporated in the basic wage structure. They wish to retain the right to negotiate further in regard to working conditions, overtime pay, etc., and they do not want to be tied down for the duration of the war," the report stated.

"Your Commissioners wish to make the following comment. We had previously stated that under a certain interpretation of existing Dominion regulations, and also if comparisons were confined to local wage structures, our original offer was adequate. We said further that if the civic wage structure was to be governed largely by comparisons with other Western cities, then we believed the recent Calgary settlement would be fair. Council provisionally accepted the latter viewpoint and made a corresponding offer to the employees.

"Even under this principle of comparison with other western cities your commissioners believe that none of the unions should be offered anything beyond the Calgary settlement, especially since the major portion of the city's contribution towards the pension fund has been given since the oucbreak of the war.

URGE OFFER STAND

"We therefore recommend that the offer made by council stand, except that we might agree to sign up with any individual unions which are prepared to accept the offer, and that the question of individual adjustments referred to in clause 4 of the federation's letter should be left with the commissioners", the report concluded.

The federation in its submission stated that it wished again to reiterate its position with respect to its request for a round table conference to enable members to carry out the spirit of collective bargaining.

"It is impossible" the federation's communication to council stated, "to fully discuss matters under the present setup of council" and suggested that an informal meeting be arranged at which the greater freedom of discussion would effect an earlier settlement of the outstanding differences existing on the wage increases.

Military Huts Sought by City For Homeless

tion for these families if permission could be obtained from the Department of National Defence was made by Mr. Williams.

He said there were no soldiers stationed there, and there was little likelihood that any would be as the entire army garrison was now concentrated at Calgary.

Mrs. George Goodall said that a serious housing problem was facing practically every city in Canada as demobilized members of the armed services returned with their wives. Several cases have occurred here, she said, where the returned soldier was unable to find accommodation.

URGES LOW-COST PLAN

She expressed the opinion that a low-cost housing plan, participated in by the Dominion, provincial and municipal governments, should be inaugurated to provide homes for returned soldiers.

The council did not deal with that portion of the Legion's resolution concerning postponement of action in connection with the Macdonald hotel approach beautification, and ordered left on the table the portion of the resolution asking for the immediate formation of a committee of responsible citizens, on which veteran bodies will be represented, to explore the whole situation so that representation can be made seeking federal aid in commencing a real low-cost housing project.

What they achieved
...we must hold

When Alexander Mackenzie pushed the borders of Canada to the Arctic and Pacific Oceans, he brought to a climax the work done by Champlain, de la Vérendrye and many others.

These intrepid explorers were inspired by that restless urge which drives men on to new discoveries and achievements. After them came other pioneers glad to endure hardships so long as they could secure for themselves and their children freedom to live as they wished and to advance their own interests through their own efforts.

That is the heritage they have handed down to us. That is what we are defending in this second world war.

Victory Bonds are a means by which each Canadian can share in the war effort of his own free will. That is why Canadians have given their whole-hearted support to each Victory Loan. That is why we will all support the Sixth Victory Loan to the limit of our ability.

Invasion Sacrifices

The coordinator of food controls hints in Ottawa that the start of the European invasion may signal a drastic tightening up of Canadian food rationing. It is likely, he says, that butter rations will be cut and that meat may be subjected to further regulation.

If, as is supposed, the freeing of territories now held by the Germans will require large quantities of food, and if Canadians are going to be required to cut down their consumption to supply that food, the people of this country should be glad of the opportunity to offer all assurances that no sacrifice is too great for victory.

Canadian civilian sacrifices in this war have been remarkably slight. Outside of those who have sustained tragic family losses, the Canadian people have gone into the fifth year of the world's most titanic struggle astonishingly undisturbed in their life, by the conflict of such tremendous forces.

Taxes are high, it is true. People are expected to curtail buying to purchase war bonds. There is not a great variety of merchandise upon which to spend money. But not one of these obligations has inconvenienced the even tenor of life. Not one is a real hardship.

Canadians are asked to do so comparatively little that they should at least do wholeheartedly the little they are asked to do.

—V—

Face Value Plus Interest

Hon. J. L. Ilsley has given assurance that the policy of low interest rates will be continued, and the market value of Victory bonds will be thus maintained. Mr. Towers, head of the Bank of Canada, says the Government has all the machinery in readiness to prevent any slump in bond values resulting from a rush of holders to cash in their securities, should this ever happen. Mr. Jaffray, general manager of the Imperial Bank, stated at Edmonton: "These bonds will be cashed at 100 cents on the dollar any time the investor desires."

These straightforward declarations from responsible men who know all the facts eliminate any ground for fear that bonds may not be convertible into money should the holder require cash, or that they might have to be sacrificed for something less than is paid for them. They remove any element of speculation from the investment and make bond-buying simply an alternative to leaving money lying in the bank or carrying it around in the pocket.

Plus the absolute certainty that the interest will be paid regularly and that the full amount invested will be returned when his bonds mature, the buyer is given assurance that if he should need the principal before the maturity date he will be able to get it back without selling his bonds at a discount.

This covers the whole ground. It makes a bond worth its face value in cash, and the interest in addition. Why keep money idle or drawing a lower interest rate when it can be put into securities on that basis? The question is not: "Why buy bonds." It is "Why not buy bonds."

—V—

A Blow-Back

Whatever may happen when the Allied invasion forces land on the continent of Europe, most of the predictions are bound to be wrong. The prophets differ so widely, and foresee so many divergent courses of events, that not more than a minority of them can possibly be right. One day readers learn that the fighting will be fierce and prolonged; the next day that Germany will plead for mercy; the following day that Hitler will stall in the east to concentrate his troops against the western invaders; and on the day after that he will throw everything against the vengeful Russians and leave the western door ajar in hope that the British and Americans will pour in and keep some sort of order in at least western Germany.

The only point on which there seems to be agreement is that the invasion will come soon, and on this point the Nazi broadcasters are more emphatic than any Allied spokesman. If they reflect the opinion in official Berlin, or tell their hearers the truth, the enemy forces in the coastal region from Spain to Norway have been "standing to" for a week or more—and getting along with little sleep and no leave.

Perhaps this reaction explains the continuing and intensifying barrage of invasion talk that has been coming out of Britain. In any event it is a kind of reaction much to be desired. Men who are kept keyed up to the alert for many days and nights undergo nervous exhaustion. The jittery Nazis in the trenches and pill-boxes will be less fit the longer they are kept under strain. The War of Nerves they started has back-fired.

Japanese Aims in Canada

Those who would admit Japanese to Alberta to help ease the labor shortage in certain fields or because the "Japanese are human like everyone else" should read the highly revealing editorial in a Japanese newspaper, published by permission of a lenient government in Kaslo, B.C.

This editorial contains a bitter attack on the Government of British Columbia. And in this attack, the Japanese editors show quite conclusively that their people came to Canada, not merely as peaceful immigrants, but with the idea of "taking over" for the Japanese emperor. The amazing thing is that they still cherish this viewpoint. They still want to assert their control. They still regard themselves as conquerors.

The fact is that even the Japanese born in this country have taken—many of them—the oath of allegiance to Toyko. Something like 1600 of those born in Canada were actually caught by the war in Japan, where they had gone to take their military training.

This seems to constitute the perfect answer to those humanists and sentimentalists who declare loudly that the Jepanese are a kindly and courteous people, and are not to be blamed for the excesses of their military party. It does not matter how kindly and courteous any immigrants are if they come to this country only to betray it.

Aside from their personal reasons for coming, Japanese are in Canada to add Canada to the Japanese empire. Surely no manufacturing or productive emergency is so great as to require any step that might enable these treacherous people to get a permanent foothold anywhere in Canada.

—V—

Among less exciting but important news of the day is an official statement that the grasshopper is not likely to be troublesome in Alberta this year, unless in a limited area in the south-eastern part of the province. As food supplies are certain to be no more than required next winter, and may be less than needed unless good crops are harvested in all the chief producing countries, a hopper visitation over any large section of the west would be a matter of world concern.

—V—

The official Nazi news agency has repeated the statement that Rome has been demilitarized. This leaves the matter exactly where it was before the first statement was given out. Rome may or may not have been cleared of military works and establishments and converted into an open city. What the Nazi radio says about it is quite as likely to be false as true. Rather more likely, as lying would be to Hitler's advantage if the Allies believed the story without getting confirmation from some dependable third party. What neutral observer does Berlin suggest as ready to guarantee the truth of its claim?

Stockholm newspapers explain that Sweden could not stop shipping iron to Germany because Germany would stop shipping coal to Sweden. That would be damaging to Swedish economy and comfort, but not so damaging as some things that may happen if it doesn't cut off the iron supplies from Hitler. The Allies are losing men and money because these supplies are feeding Hitler's munitions plants. The Swedes understand human nature well enough to know that will not be tolerated indefinitely. They must also foresee that they are going to lose both the Hitler iron market and Hitler coal supplies anyway before very long.

The Japanese columns which invaded Manipur continue to run into trouble in the shape of converging British-Indian forces. They have lost heavily and are said to be fighting now to get control of some sheltered place where they can den up for the monsoon season. Whatever their prospect of succeeding they are likely to fight with desperation, for the alternative is to backtrack in the rain, perhaps only to find that their bases along the Chindwin river have been wiped out or occupied by Stilwell's paratroops. As events have transpired the adventure seems to be more of a menace to the invaders than to India.

The Memory of Sticky Fingers

By J. H. GRAY

There is little strength in the tiny, inch-long fingers which are so soft and yielding to the touch of adult hands. Yet their capacity for mischief is infinite, and the damage one pair of little hands can do to drapes, wallpaper, clothes and furniture is something awesome to behold. That this laying on of soiled and sticky hands is completely devoid of evil intent detracts not at all from the havoc that is wrought.

Parents, after a brief and hopeless struggle, yield to the inevitable. They reconcile themselves to having their clothes and their belongings messed up by dabs of honey, jam, marmalade and miscellaneous goo for which little hands have a strongly developed affinity. They bow to the inevitable and compromise with life.

But maiden ladies, particularly when decked out in spring finery and riding in street cars, exhibit none of this tolerance for the small fry. The appearance of a three or four-year-old in their vicinity sends shivers down their spines. They try to compress themselves into the smallest possible space, obviously in the hope that the little hands will not grab unwittingly at their skirts.

Watching just such a performance the other day, and in this case the young lady was not successful in eluding the clutch of the sticky hands, we recalled the snatch of a previously overheard conversation.

* * *

A youngish man with grey hair was speaking to a youthful companion. The latter had asked about Eric, if there had been any word. No, not a word since they had been notified that Eric was missing. It was a terrible strain, the uncertainty of it. The older man was Eric's father, and he went on to tell about how hard it was on his wife.

She had started to do her housecleaning the other day. She had been up in the attic rummaging around. She came, he said, on some of Eric's old school books. There was a batch of papers, a little batch of maybe three or four. There was one which a little hand had laboriously covered with crudely formed rows of A's, B's and C's. The mother remembered the day he marched proudly home from school with that paper. The smudges of tiny fingers were still on it.

It wasn't so much the news or lack of it, but the coming across things like that that broke you up.

Yes, it is things like that which break you up, which underscore in deep black for thousands of Canadians the deep personal tragedy of war. The little hands that smudged chocolate on skirts and dabbed marks on the walls have gone off to war, to finger the controls of Flying Fortresses and Spitfires, to load guns and to pull triggers. The little feet that once tracked mud across the newly-washed floor trudge still through the mud—through the mud of Italian battlefields.

* * *

The little hands and little feet have grown tough and strong and ever so much bigger. It is these hands, these strong hands, which will eventually bring peace and security to the world. But to those who wait at home for their return, and to those who know that for them there will be no return, there is little thought of hands grown big and strong. There is thought instead of baby hands, of sticky, goo-covered fingers. Of fingers which, though the surface smudges have long since disappeared, somehow in passing seared themselves forever into the consciousness of those who loved them. They will remember those little fingers long after everything else has drifted from memory.

Economic Experiments

Editor, Bulletin: Canada stands today at the crossroads, with our way of life in the balance. As we face a program of "planned economy" based upon a system that kept men yoked to bureaucracy for centuries, Canadians should do some serious thinking.

State control means countless bureaus, directives and commissions, presided over by groups perpetuating themselves in office; government by the people will "perish from the earth" under this threat. It is the dream of all failures in life that some all-powerful government will give them, free, some form of "security from the cradle to the grave." But Canada is not a failure.

This alien philosophy is not new. It goes back centuries, blooming very effectively through the dark medieval ages, when a rigid system governed men and kept them in poverty and ignorance for generations. The force of freedom of enterprise and individuals broke that dismal spell at the French Revolution.

More progress was made in the last 100 years under free enterprise and capitalism than in all preceding history! Then why should Canadians revive panaceas and quack nostrums like "planned economy" when they can see their failure so clearly in history? Responsible people should pay no attention to thwarted failures who can not run their own affairs but want power over all of us so that they may wreck our national economy with their weird experiments.

Criminal Folly

Editor, Bulletin: You ask "In what way does the (Macdonald Hotel) beautification program interfere with the housing program?" I am surprised at the question. Surely you have allowed your enthusiasm to run away with your judgment.

To build a house requires labor, machine energy, materials, sewer and water extensions, and other expenditures of a material nature.

To build a business place to take the place of space which must be vacated to make room for your park will also require the expenditure of man energy, machine energy, etc., etc.

To tear down the buildings and make a park will also require the expenditure of man energy, machine energy, etc.

It is pretty common knowledge that there is a scarcity of man energy, and all other energy, as well as building materials of every kind, which are also produced with energy. It is also rather commonly known that neither a man nor a machine can be in two places at one time. Nor can they do two jobs, nor three, at one time.

It is, therefore, pretty obvious that if our manpower is used to tear down one set of business houses and build another to take their place it cannot be used to build houses in which to live, to man our packing plants, our farms, our mines, or our defence industries. It is just as obvious that if materials are to be destroyed, if materials are to go into new business places, they will not be available for houses for people to live in. If that isn't obvious it surely should be.

Since this war started over four years ago there has been a great deal of improper use of both manpower and materials. There have been a great many new and unnecessary store fronts put up on Jasper Avenue, for example. Houses and blocks have been beautified—as well as churches. Valuable as all this may be in happier times, it is criminal folly surely in these times when we need to use all available energy and material in the building of adequate homes—not beautiful ones—in the building of hospitals, in the building of aeroplanes, in the manufacture of tanks, guns, ammunition, in the repair of necessary roads.

Will parks, even ever so beautiful, take the place of any of these things?

You plead to make Edmonton a beautiful place for our boys to come back to. Perhaps some of the boys would be more pleased if you left a few of these beautification jobs for them to do. There is a great deal of city to be cleaned up if you are going to do a real good job—an impressive one. From present indications there will be a surplus of both men and materials about the time the boys start coming back in force. That is the time to build that which we want but can get along without just now.

Our slogan should be: "Buy only what you must have! Use available materials for essential purposes only!" And there should be no tongue in the cheek either.

Buy another bond today! and speed the word that our soldiers' wives and families are going to have homes to live in and not just parks to look at!

It will no doubt take fewer bonds to buy that property after the war, too.

Peace River

Editor Bulletin: The traffic on the railway three years ago compared to today is almost unbelievable and our old pioneeres marvel at the change. The Alaska Highway has made the change. We have soldiers from every state in the U.S.A. and it's our best advertisement since yesteryear when Herman Trelle startled the world by winning the world's wheat championship three times only to be barred from the exhibition in the following years. Truly our ambassador to United States was right when he said Columbus discovered America in 1492 and America discovered Canada in 1942. Same figures only re-arranged.

Our American cousins now know that Peace River is not the frozen north which borders the imaginary line between our two nations. When will our Canadian cousins in other parts of Canada not any further distant than Edmonton also discover "Canada"? Because our vast northland is in area one-sixth of all of Canada. Its possibilities, natural resources and opportunities for the future generations of our children's children, even unto the third and fourth generations is really unbelievable and marvellous in our eyes.

The promise of the late Sir Henry Thornton that the railway would be extended to the Pacific ocean when the people of the Peace River country produced tonnage equal to ten million bushels of wheat. Well the construction is long past due as we have reached that tonnage over ten years ago and have more than reached it in stock shipments besides. Given a railway to the coast, one of the C.P.R. research officials before the committee of reconstruction in the Dominion parliament gave it as his personal view that the area of one-sixth of Canada could support a population of three million people.

Do the businessmen of Edmonton view that with alarm? Or does it mean more "bigger and better" business? The time is long past due when districts should cease from knocking each other as has been the case in my personal experience of forty years in Alberia.

Fortunately every knock has been a boost, because people have sought the truth and it is written "The truth shall make you free from prejudice. Let's be Canadians first, last and always.

Beautification

Editor, Bulletin: With regard to the editorial which followed the report of our last Sunday's meeting, "Right and Wrong", the writer seems to feel that some sympathy should be felt for any body of men who can oppose a project so warmly championed by both local newspapers. This organization is a democratic one and no one, not even the writer, would doubt that, as every member of this organization has fulfilled the fundamental duties of every citizen, i.e. has been prepared to lay down his life for his country; also a great many of our members today have boys in the battle. Theirs is not lip service to the community or country.

Has it ever occurred to the writer that if the proposed beautification scheme is begun approximately 15 people would be dispossessed? There are quite a number of businesses there today who are relieving downtown restaurant congestion by daily serving more than three thousand meals. If the writer had to eat his lunch downtown and spend his time waiting in queues he would appreciate that this is also a major factor in opposing the scheme at this time. Furthermore the business men in the block, for the first time in many, many years are showing returns from their labor and that undoubtedly should be given consideration.

Housing, it is stated, is a financial problem, but only in a secondary way—the primary factor being—quote—"labor and material." Today the packing plants and all labor projects are crying out for labor. If the writer would care to check with the Selective Service he would find skilled men being sent to projects at trade rate of wages, and then being asked to do laboring work. There is no government—municipal, provincial or Dominion—which would give sanction to labor being used on a project of this kind at the present time.

On May the first hundreds of families in this city are facing eviction, many of them wives and mothers of men serving overseas both in the line in Italy and waiting for the signal to go to attack the Western Defences. We think it is a scandal that the public have been so apathetic to the many discomforts that these dependents have had to undergo through their breadwinners volunteering their services for this Empire. We would ask, as in all other cities throughout Canada, that the mayor and city council be requested to make representation jointly with Halifax, Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, to seek financial assistance whereby a low cost housing project can be started immediately in this city. Post-war projects are all very well, but who can tell when the post-war era will arrive.

We are in agreement with the writer and all similar bodies who have stated that a sane husing plan is an urgent need in Edmonton and to us, who know the problems of returned and serving men, there is one outstanding duty due to them, that is to see that, whilst they are fighting, their dependents are properly fed, clothed and housed. When this is done, we, like everyone else, will be only too pleased to see this downtown eye-sore cleared out, and that is not only applicable to the Macdonald front, but to the whole downtown area.

Temperance

Editor, Bulletin: The recent sidestepping by the provincial government of the request of the Associated Temperance forces of Alberta to have the consumption of alcoholic beverages curtailed seems to me, to indicate, that the provincial government in its desire for profits is allowing itself to be dominated by the liquor interests of Canada and the United States.

As I see it, the question is not fundamentally whether or not the percentage of people who use alcoholic beverages shall or shall not be allowed to have an increase of these drinks (though an increase in drunkenness and an increased wastage in such a time of crisis as this is greatly to be deplored), but are the people of Alberta going to allow the booze barons of North America to destroy what remains of sobriety and temperance out of our land?

Surely the thinking people of our province ought to demand that their government support the federal plea for a curtailment of the consumption of alcoholic beverages for the duration of the war!

Landlords and Children

Editor, Bulletin: Regarding a letter signed "Once a Child", there must be some very strong reason for landlords refusing to take children. The majority of children in Edmonton are uncontrolled, and the other tenants as well as the landlords have to suffer.

Children, especially the small ones, are destructive, and a nuisance generally, if not kept under control. Well-behaved children and their parents have to suffer because there are so many badly brought up children.

Practice Patriotism

Editor Bulletin: May I say a few words in reply to "Veteran" of Cereal, Alta., whose letter regarding university students and others volunteering for service, appeared in your progressive paper of April 15th.

I note "Veteran" is all "puffed up" with pride at having two sons volunteer for active service. I sympathize with him in the loss of one of these sons who paid the extreme sacrifice. I can appreciate his anguish!

At the same time I think it is unfair that we single out our youth, and point a finger at them, calling them cowards if they don't drop everything and volunteer their lives for us older people.

Has "Veteran" forgotten that it is "we" and not "they" who sat silently by and allowed conditions to come to the point where a war need be fought

After all it is only a few years ago since our boys were kicked from one city and town to another. Riding the rods and going hungry. Then they were just bums!

At that time we were only too pleased to ship our precious metal and scrap iron to Japan and Germany. It was good business. We made money!

We also stood by silent and watched food destroyed, (while those same boys went hungry). That too was good business—for some.

Did "Veteran" so much as protest the injustice?

It is so easy for we older people to sit back and expect—nay demand—that our youth prove their loyalty to their country, by fighting and dying for it. But what are we willing to sacrifice? "Why". Veteran will probably retort, "we buy Victory Bonds"—yes, and draw 3% interest on our money at the expense of our boys' security.

Let's not kid ourselves any longer. Our boys—and girls should point their finger at us, and say, "O.K." Veteran, what are you sacrificing for our country's freedom? Are you willing to give up business as usual for the sake of our glorious country? Are you willing to go on army pay for the duration and really prove your patriotism by helping us finish this war as soon as possible?

How dare we expect youth to sacrifice everything — job, home, loved ones, health and even life, for us, if we go on placidly expecting to make money and draw interest at the expense of their security?

If we want to have a united Canada, lets quit talking patriotism and loyalty and start practising it.

How about it "Veteran"?

Ode to Landlords

Editor, Bulletin: The ad reads "House for Rent"—only adults need apply, We don't want little children, I pause and wonder Why! Oh you meanie of a landlord were you never a small lad? or were you a model child who was never never bad?

Over there mere lads are fighting, and their families must have shelter. If it wasn't for their courage, on your house the bombs would pelter. So let the little children in, and try to do your part. "We need not only Freedom, but people with a Heart!"

Canada's Parks and Gardens

Famous for Perennials; Landscape Also Ideal Background

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

Evergreen forests of Newfoundland and evergreen forests of Vancouver Island are the east and west limits of Canada. In between these two coastlines are many beautiful plants and much fine scenery that a traveler might spend months in just touching the more accessible places without getting a glimpse of more remote treasures.

In many instances the plant life of Southern Canada and Northern United States is the same, for a political boundary means nothing to nature, and plants grow where they thrive best.

The Canadian Rockies and the American Rockies both include many beautiful alpine plants that delight casual visitor and expert, too. In the middle sections, the rolling prairies of Saskatchewan and those of the Dakotas are the home of the same grasses, the same groves of willows and the same wild flowers.

Trees and shrubs in Montreal's Mount Royal Park will seem familiar to anyone who has seen parks in Michigan.

In New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, however, plant experts have discovered many species that are identical or similar to Pacific Coast and Rocky Mountain type. The appearance of these plants from milder climates indicates that the Nova Scotia-New Brunswick area may have escaped the glacial action that swept over other parts of Eastern Canada long ago. Forests of these regions include sugar maple, paper birch, spruce, balsam fir and beech.

Scenic Regions

The Gaspe peninsula and Newfoundland represent two of the most scenic regions of Eastern Canada. In the Gaspe peninsula the farmer and the fisherman cling to old French ways. Houses, barns and churches have an old-world look. French is the language of the land and the life of the communities is French.

Much of the peninsula is windswept and rocky but there are fine pastures and thick forests that supply fuel and timber. Wild iris, clover, columbine and daisies color the meadows and roadsides and brighten the fringes of native forests.

Newfoundland's native flora includes white birches which are ornamental at all seasons of the year. The tough spruce is another Newfoundlander. The Cornus canadensis, or creeping dogwood as it is commonly called, carpets the forests of Newfoundland and makes beautiful patches of white flowers among vigorous growing ferns.

In the more barren headlands of the island, blueberries and wild strawberries abound in much the same way as they do on the Pacific coast.

Toronto is one of the principal centers of fine landscape gardening. Many well planned gardens, arranged in the English manner with well laid walks, fine walls, pools, well tended hedges and rich ornament may be found in the residential rections.

Numerous Parks

Montreal's parks and the fine homes of the city include handsome old trees and well tended lawns. Montreal's famous Mount Royal park is one of the most interesting parks in a large Canadian city.

Quebec, rich in French history, is the gateway to one of the famous vacation lands where sports and scenery vie for the visitor's attention. Forests, fishing streams, sea coast, farm land, fishing villages and the great St. Lawrence river are a few of the attractions of Quebec province.

British Columbia gardens in and near Victoria and Vancouver have set a high standard for those who consider the rock gardens and perenial borders to be "tops". Many of the fine plants that thrive in Washington and Oregon have been brought from British Columbia where friendly gardeners are always willing to share trade secrets.

Native flora of British Columbia includes forest trees and many lovely alpines and various ferns.

Garden design in Victoria and its adjacent countryside is rather English in feeling but is much modified by the native landscape. The background of the water, the heavy growth of forest trees and an abundance of natural rock formations has influenced garden designers who build many naturalistic gardens as well as well ordered English plots. The climate is very favorable to plant growth and horticultural excellence is achieved by most gardeners in that era.

Weather Hinders North Aviation

Operation of ski-equipped aircraft in northern areas will cease entirely by May 1, it was announced Wednesday by Canadian Pacific Air Lines officials. Annual breakup of ice on lakes and rivers means a two to three week tie-up in transportation until waters are open for float landings.

However there will be less delay this year owing to the installation of airports along the northern routes, which make possible the continuation of service to many points.

Operations will be suspended north of Fort Resolution to Coppermine, north of Norman Wells to Aklavik, and to points on Lake Athabasca.

It is expected trips will be resumed the last week of May, depending on open water conditions.

Officers Named

Liberals Fail to Reach Decision on Co-Operation With Independent Party

Co-operation of Edmonton Provincial Liberal Association with the Independent Citiizens' Association of Alberta is still an undecided matter, after the question came up for discussion at an annual meeting of the Liberal group, held in the 103 street I.O.O.F. Hall Tuesday night.

Some two dozen Liberal supporters who attended the meeting voted after a debate, which at times became heated, to refer the "whole question" to incoming officers elected.

Named as president of the association was Thomas L. Cross, city barrister, of the firm Short and Cross, who succeeds Neil D. Maclean, K.C. Mr. Cross, whose father, Hon. Charles Cross, was attorney-general of Alberta many years ago, was elected by acclamation.

OTHER OFFICERS

Charles H. Grant, K.C., was elected as vice-president and acting secretary, and H. O. Patriquin was named treasurer. Vice-presidents for city districts elected were W. Coupland, East Edmonton; A. D. Johnson, South Side and Nelles V. Buchanan, K.C., West Edmonton.

The question of co-operation with the Independent party came up for debate when a letter from J. Percy Page, M.L.A., secretary of the Independent Citizens' Association was taken under consideration. The letter had been tabled at a previous meeting. It asked for appointment of a committee to meet with the Independent party, to talk over th co-operation matter.

Bringing the letter up for discussion, Mr. Grant suggested some agreement should be reached with the Independent group.

Mr. Maclean moved a committee of five should be appointed, to confer with the Independents and report back to a later meeting. An amendment by Miss L. Carrigan had the effect of referring the whole question to the incoming officers, and the amended motion was later carried.

AGAINST CO-OPERATION

Charles Blair declared during discussion "We should reply to the Page letter, and tell them we are still Liberals. I'd rather see one man elected as a Liberal than 25 elected as Independents. I'm not willing to co-operate with the Independents.

"The Independents have no more chances than the C.C.F. in the next election. They will not elect two candidates in the City of Edmonton."

Mr. Blair went on to deplore the fact that "in this capital city we are tinkering around trying to co-operate with the Independents."

The next speaker, Mr. Maclean, observed that there was no question but that the Liberals wanted to retain their present identity.

Reference was made by speakers to a meeting in Calgary of the Liberal general council, when it was decided to co-operate with the Independent party. This meeting did not elect a leader of the Alberta Liberal party.

HAVE NO LEADER

Mr. Grant told the meeting "We have no leader, and would not be in a position to form a government if we were elected. We should make some arrangement with the Independents whereby the Liberals should provide a certain number of candidates, and the Independents a certain number, to fill the five Edmonton seats (in the provincial Legislature)."

"The Liberal candidates elected would not pledge to an Independent party leader, except insofar as he endorsed Liberal policies."

Mr. Blair rose to say if Mr. Grant had made these statements before the election proceedings, "I would have voted against him."

At the end of the meeting, Mr. Grant submitted his resignation. On a motion by Mr. Buchanan, it was rejected. Mr. Blair thereupon asked that his name be withdrawn from the association executive.

Selective Service Self - Registration System Is Working

The new system of self-registration which has been in effect at the local office of the Unemployment Insurance and Selective Service Commission is proving satisfactory according to officials.

At least three times as many applicants are being handled daily than under the previous system. In addition to this, filling out their own registration forms keeps the applicant busy while he is in the office eliminating tedious waiting to be interviewed.

Classes in staff administration which are being conducted daily at the employment office by J. B. Larway, of the war emergency training plan, are being attended by employment supervisors.

Staging Route Holds Unique Air Position

The Northwest Staging Route is the most important air route in the world, according to Air Marshal Robert Leckie, C.B., D.S.O., D.S.C. D.F.C., chief of air staff, R.C.A.F., Ottawa, who arrived in Edmonton Tuesday afternoon. He said that he considers it most important from a military point of view at present and from a post war civilian standpoint.

"Edmonton, at the threshold of the route holds an unique place in aviation," he said.

Replying to a question regarding the great reduction in the number of aircrew trained, the chief of air staff replied that the Allies have attained air supremacy, and the size of the scheme can be reduced. He said the remainder is adequate to supply men for expansion and for replacements.

"We have all we need for the offensive," he stated.

"At the beginning of the war Germany had a huge air force and the joint air training plan was set up on a scale and rate of training to quickly overtake the enemy, he said.

"Casualties have been lighter than might reasonably have been expected and we can now produce all the air crew for which aircraft is available," he said.

Air Marshal Leckie and a party of other high ranking R.C.A.F. officers will leave shortly on a tour of the Northwest Staging Route. They hope to attend the opening of the Canol refinery at Whitehorse on Sunday.

Others in the party include Air Vice-Marshal L. F. Stevenson, C.B., Western Air Command; Air Vice-Marshal Frank S. McGill, air member for aorganization; Air Vice-Marshal R. Collard, C.B.E., chief works officer for the R.C.A.F.; Air Commodore K. M. Guthrie, O.B.E., P.S.A.; Wing Cmdr. C. Sheldon; Wing Cmdr. H. Marlow Kennedy, A.F.C., in charge of passenger transport; Sqdn. Ldr. Barton and Flt. Lt. Tilley.

Wing Cmdr. H. Marlow Kennedy, A.F.C., formerly of Edmonton and veteran northern bush pilot, is piloting the aircraft in which the officers will make their tour.

Dismisses Action In Accident Claim

In a supreme court judgment, Mr. Justice C. C. McLaurin dismissed a damage action by Mrs. Elizabeth Suran, Edmonton, against the city.

The action arose out of injuries allegedly suffered by the plaintiff in November, 1942, while she was riding on a Calder street car. She claimed she boarded a street car at 101 street and Jasper avenue and that the motorman started the car with such speed that she was thrown to the floor and suffered back and knee injuries.

She asked $506.75 for special damages, and $2,500 general damages.

C. G. Purvis, K.C., and E. H. Logan acted for the plaintiff. Thomas E. Garside, K.C., city solicitor, acted for the city.

Edmonton Cagers Hand Merritton 51-43 Setback in Second of Playoffs

Engineers Square Canadian Hoop Finals

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

ENGINEERS did not take any chances on a last-second basket forcing overtime in last night's game with Merritton Hayes Steelers and hit the closing moments of the second session for the Canadian basketball title with a reasonably safe margin. Prospects for the championship remaining in the west accordingly took an immediate turn for the better.

"Long John" Gullekson continued to roll in the points with another 20 collected, his 40 in the two games being quite a tidy total. Evidentaly the Steelers tabbed Bob Chamness as one player to be watched and must have overlooked Harley Miller, who came up with 18 while the eastern cagers were busy holding Chamness to a pair.

Naturally local basketball enthusiasts are closely following the progress of the Engineers in their title bid at St. Catherines,q but it is doubtful if any of them were more pleased last night than Lt. George Regitko, U.S.A.A.F., special services, or Clare Hollingsworth, president of the Edmonton Men's Basketball League.

POPULAR OFFICER LEAVING

FLYING OFFICER GERRY WIDDRINGTON, sports officer at No. 2 A.O.S. and retiring president of the Edmonton Inter-Service Sports Council is leaving this week to take up his new post at Trenton, Ont. Gerry was also manager of the A.O.S. hockey team during the season just ended and in fact has taken a prominent part in all service sports activities and he will be hard to replace.

Yanks, entry of the U.S. Army and winners of the Edmonton Senior Baseball League as well as the Alberta titles last year, worked out at Renfrew Park on Tuesday evening. Yanks are expecting to play exhibition games against H.M.C.S. Tecumseh in Calgary on May 13 and 14. Sweeney Schriner is coach of the Navy nine this season.

Sgt. Wayne Adams, who is handling the Yanks was unbeaten during the regular league schedule in 1943. He pitched and won two games and worked in two others. He went nine innings against Dodgers on June 13, yielding just two runs and six hits and with Harry Baldwin pitched the 10-inning tie on July 6, also with Dodgers. Adams also pitched against Arrows in the playoffs and the only start he lost during the entire season was a 5-4 decision to Calgary Navy All-Stars on Sept. 14. He was nicked for six hits that day.

ARCARO PICKS STIR UP

JOCKEY EDDIE ARCARO, who rode Lawrin and Whirlaway to Derby victories, says that Stir Up, having already taken the Wood Handicap, will duplicate Count Fleet's performance of last year and go on to take the Kentucky classic.

Stir Up with Arcaro in charge is, of course, the hot favorite in the Derby future book. Mrs. Payne Whitney's chustnut gelding was not impressive as a two-year old, winning only three of 12 starts, but came second five times and third once. However, this spring he won the Flamingo at Hialeah, then took his half of the Experimental and and finished first in the Wood.

Col. C. V. Whitney, owner of Pukka Gin, is a nephew of the owner of Stir Up. Pukka Gin was rated the top juvenile of 1943. He carried top weight of 126 in his half of the Split Experimental, in which he ran second to Stronghold, lightly regarded colt not eligible for the Derby.

Montgomery to Fight Peralta

Doc. Kearns Begins Promotional Venture

CHICAGO, April 26.—(AP)—Doc Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, will begin his first Chicago promotional venture Friday night by bringing together Bob Montgomery and Joe Peralta in a 10-round revival meeting at the old Coliseum, an ancient arena that has been without a fight program in two years.

Kearns hopes that the fans' response will "bring down the rafters," or at least disturb the cobwebs clinging to them.

"Why it was right here in the Coliseum ring that I saw the greatest lightweight fight of my life—when Jimmy McLarnin knocked out Louis (Kid) Kaplan," recalls the maestro who gained a lifelong reputation as Dempsey's manager when the Manassa mauler chilled Jess Willard in 1919 for the heavyweight belt.

Montgomery, a 25-year-old Philadelphia, may be making his last fight for the duration after earning $200,000 during six years of campaigning. The Bobcat is scheduled to enter the army Saturday, but his manager, Frank Thomas, is seeking a two-months deferment for him so he can go through with fights against Ike Williams in Philadelphia May 15 and Tippy Larkin in New York June 9.

Peralta, a clubbing Mexican from Tamaqua, Pa., lost by decision in two previous bouts with Montgomery.

Winner of Rich Blue Grass Will Be Derby Threat

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 26—(AP)—Around Churchill Downs the know-it-all boys are saying the horse which wins today's running of the Blue Grass Stakes will be the one Stir Up will have to beat to win the Kentucky Derby here May 6.

The boys agree Mrs. Payne Whitney's Stir Up deserves the favorite spot at 2 to 1 odds by reason of his victory in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica Saturday.

Thirty-two three-year-olds were nominated for the $10,000 added Blue Grass last February. This list included Stir Up and many of the other better-known Derby candidates. Stir Up will not run today. Wednesday race, being due to arrive here that morning. Starters will be named today.

Hyman Friedberg's Harriet Sue, A. C. Ernst's Alorter, M. B. Goff's Skytracer and Erlanger Stable's Shut Out now look like sure starters. Brolite Stable's Challenge Me anod Alfred Parker's By Jimminy may run in the mile and an eighth Derby preview.

CANADIAN SPORTSHOTS

By SYD THOMAS

TORONTO, April 26.—(CP)—Most people have one fault or another to find with the horse-racing game, mainly that the steeds they bet on don't always come in near the head of the parade. But a citizen in South Africa now comes up with a studied complaint about the number-color system of identifying horses in a race.

Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick reproduces the suggestion to rectify this ailment, made by Capt. M. R. D'Arcy, stipendiary steward of the Jockey Club of South Africa. Capt. D'Arcy says the public (that's a mass term for the feverishly-hopeful bettors at the track) can't follow the horse of their choice through the running of a race because of the confusing number of racing colors used by different stables.

He suggests adoption of plain racing colors which would be uniform throughout the world for each individual number on the race card. Thus, number one might wear red silks, number two blue and so on. All the trackgoer would have to do then would be to pick out his color and follow it around the track with bated breath to the bitter end.

Sport's great loss:

Sport writers throughout Canada are paying tribute to the memory of W. A. "Bill" Fry, one of Canada's outstanding sport personalities. Bill Fry was editor of the Dunnville Chronicle, and his column in that weekly paper was widely read. "Old Bill," as he was popularly known, was one of the few bulwarks of true amateurism in the Dominion.

He opposed the advance of professionalism in formerly amateur sport fields, and devoted much of his time and energy to the work of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. He was past president of both those bodies, and was also prominent in Olympic Games affairs.

Sport has lost one of its staunchest adherents in his death.

Parade:

Vince (Winnipeg Tribune) Leah suggests a Dominion play-off in one of the minor hockey groups on preferably midget, as a means of encouraging the younger hockey players. . . Hairy Lou Adelman, once starry centre with Winnipeg Blue Bombers and newspaper sports columnist, played a new role at the Winnipeg Press club's 11th annual smoker. As a female impersonator, he reached stage stardom in the role of "Mrs. Murgatroyd," a mid-Victorian landlady who had difficulties with the prices board and rental controller on moving day.

Third Game Is Arranged For Tonight

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., April 26.—(CP)—The United States Army Engineers scored a 51-43 win over Merritton Hayes Steel here Tuesday night to even the best of five series for the Canadian senior basketball championship at one game apiece. Merritton won the first game 63-61 in overtime Monday night.

The Engineers, once again were led by lanky John Gullekson who scored 20 points—the same number he marked up Monday night. Herman Brunotte topped Merritton marksmen with 12 points. Third game of the series will be played here tonight.

The American team played a sounder court game than the eastern Canadian champions, who relaxed defensively, permitting Gullekson, former University of Wisconsin athlete, to break away on numerous occasions to pile up his 20 points.

• • •

Merritton, however, tabbed Gullekson's forward clubmate, Bob Chamnes, formerly of the University of Indiana State, who only managed to sink one basket. However, guard Harley Miller, one-time Iowa State University player, took over scoring honors with Gullekson, marking up 18 points. He was well set up by Engineers and eluded his check with regularity.

Edmonton led 23-18 at half time.

During the opening half Merritton's plays failed to click and Captain Sal Maglie missed numerous tries when the Engineers set up a stonewall rearguard. The Army led 12-7 after the first 10 minutes although at the 15-minute mark were only ahead 14-12.

Edmonton maintained their five-point half-time margin practically throughout the last half but Merritton suffered when they lost centre Matt Mazza, one of the stars in Monday night's tussle, after five minutes on personal fouls.

• • •

The Gullekson-Miller combination alternated consistently for the Engineers as they ran into a 42-35 lead at the 15-minute point.

Merritton pared the lead after a last-chance bid for victory and with three minutes to go the lead stood at 46-41 for Edmonton. Gullekson sank two neat baskets in the dying minutes.

Edmonton—Chamness (2), Gullekson (20), Ayers (9), Kroma (1), Miller (18), Hora, Phillips, Murphy, Smith (1). Total—51.

Merritton—Brunotte (12), Gauchet (9), Mazza (3), Pastore (2), Maglie (6), Anthony, Rodriguez, Astorina, Martinez (11). Total—43.

Men Plus Mice Racing Is Nice

DARWIN, Australia, April 26.—(CP)—For lack of horses, servicemen at a certain place in Northern Australia are racing field mice. The course is generally an old kerosene tin laid flat and cut open so that everybody can see how the favorite is doing.

The high walls of the tin keep the mice from quitting in the middle and jumping off the course.

Good racers are in keen demand, since a fair amount of money in bets hang on every race.

Of course, novices have to be brought in from time to time to make up the field, and these are apt to lie down on the job, just like horses.

The difference is that when they stop, the owner, under the local rules, has the right to get them into action again by tickling them. This can't be done with horses.

Ball Attendance Slightly Better

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—Baseball fans have not broken down any gates in their haste to get into the ball parks and attendance is only slightly better than an average peace-time haul for opening day, but the future outlook is most promising.

Although figures are a little out of line because they include the banner opening crowds, attendance has been more than 8,500 a game. Anything resembling this average throughout the season would surpass last year's total of 7,714,638.

Do you rate a ration of this ESSENTIAL TRANSPORTATION?

CCM

THERE are bicycles to be had and larger quantities of materials are being made available to provide bicycles for essential users. But, in spite of these improved conditions, voluntary bicycle rationing by the bicycle manufacturers and dealers in co-operation with the Wartime Prices and Trade Board is still necessary to ensure that all available bicycles are supplied to essential riders.

This is vital to our war effort as the bicycle can relieve the severe wartime strain on other modes of travel as well as provide essential transportation in communities where there are no public conveyances.

So, if you need a bicycle, and can qualify under one of the groups A, B, C or D listed herewith, go to your favourite C.C.M. dealer and fill out the regulation Bicycle Purchase Application Form.

Then, if the C.C.M. dealer considers that you "Rate a bicycle for essential transportation", your dealer will supply you with one as soon as it is available on your application.

And, if you should have, or know of, any idle bicycles, suggest to their owners that they sell them to a C.C.M. dealer and get them rolling.

A A user in the course of whose daily duties the bicycle is needed to enable him to earn his livelihood (such as delivery messenger, messenger, watchman services, police patrol, collector, employee of public utilities).

B A war worker, who requires a bicycle for transportation purposes to and from place of employment, minimum 15 miles weekly.

C A civilian worker, who requires a bicycle for transportation to and from place of employment, minimum 15 miles weekly.

D A school teacher or student, who requires this form of transportation to and from school or college, minimum 15 miles weekly.

A clergyman, professional man or farmer who requires the use of a bicycle as a means of transportation for the carrying out of his work.

NEW YORK, April 26.—The whispering wings of great flights of passenger pigeons and the thundering hoofs of vast buffalo herds have vanished from the American scene. Likewise the swaggering crew of Irish fighters who dominated the nation's rings.

Accordingly it was like watching the last passenger dove or the last Bison last night as we saw Coley Welch of Portland, Me., belt his way to victory at little St. Nick's. Welch is the last prominent Irish pugilist still tossing leather; what with Billy Conn, Red Cochrane, Bobby Ruffin, etc., in service.

Welch—so completely Irish that his face is a compromise between the late Philadelphia Jack O'Brien and Jimmy Braddock—pounded out a ten-round decision over Vic Dellicurti, New York middleweight.

IMPORTANT VICTORY

IT was an important victory for Coleman Patrick Bernard Welch, although we cannot say that, in achieving it, he seemed a throwback to such Celtic clouters of the past as John L. Sullivan, Jim Corbett, Johnny Kilbane, Jack McAuliffe, Mickey Walker, Mike Gibbons, Tom Sharkey or Tommy Loughran.

It was a close, crowd-pleasing fight; and Welch himself was delighted that he had won, because it was his first victory on the come-back trail, after losing to rugged Jake LaMotta at Boston on March 17—of all days.

Welch was delighted; so was his manager, little Chick Hayes, who came swinging out of Indianapolis around 1908 to fight the best of the world's bantams. In his victory over Dellicurti, Coley showed flashes of the same form that had distinguished him before entering the coast guard, in which he served for almost 14 months. He was given a medical discharge seven months ago because of a perforated left ear drum. He came out of the coast guard scaling nearly 190 pounds. He got fat in the coast guard because he was forced to an inside, sitting-down job, since his injured ear could not stand unseemly weather.

PARED DOWN TOO FAST

WELCH, a natural middleweight, pared down too fast after his discharge from the coast guard, and, although he won his first 10 bouts, he made a miserable showing in the 11th against LaMotta. The paring off had left him a bit flabby. To harden his body again, a physician advised him to return to his first calling—that of an iceman—since March 17, Coley has been working from 7 a.m. until noon daily on an ice wagon in Portland. By following this vigorous occupation—which Tony Galento glamorized in his prebeer days—25-year-old Coley recaptured some of the ruggedness he possessed before entering the coast guard.

He scaled 164 pounds Monday night. But, more important, his reactions were sharp; his timing was better, and he shook off Dellicurti's punches like a mallard shedding mist.

This last of the prominent Irish scrappers, the New England middleweight champ, hopes to become the No. 1 civilian 160-pounder by licking Lloyd Marshall and LaMotta. He craves this distinction so that brother Paul, a marine sergeant in New Guinea, will get it by short wave; and perhaps brother Frankie of the marines will hear of it in his Japanese prison camp No. 2 in the Philippines—if still alive.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALLAN NICKLESON

LONDON, April 26.—(CP)—The secret kept itself pretty well but let it now be known that greyhound racing, rivalling football as a major sport, carries a "Scotland Yard" within its precincts.

Unknown to the general public, preventives against "ringers" and fraud, which include such measures as paw-printing, are taken by the Greyhound Racing Club, a body similar in functions to the Jockey Club, ruling committee of the turf.

Before a greyhound is permitted to race on any of the 61 tracks which come under jurisdiction of the club, it must have a passport book in which particulars are recorded. For instance, particulars of each foot, with color markings and length of the four claws, forms a part of the passport contents. Thousands of dogs have been checked and no two sets of feet found similar.

Dog owners never handle passports. They remain with the tracks and this makes substitution of a dog impossible because each physical point of the entry is checked before each race.

Each track forwards a result sheet of its meeting to headquarters. Questions are asked if a dog suddenly "finds" a suspicious jump in form.

Just as stringent is the check on trainers and kennelmen, especially since recent cases of drugged greyhounds came to light. Seekers of these posts fill in a questionnaire which contains 30 sections.

Danger of loss of records through bombing or fire has been nullified. Each passport is photographed and the duplicate secreted in blast and fireproof boxes deep underground.

A record price of $13,500 has been refused for Disputed Rattler, most popular racing greyhound in Britain today and winner of 21 of 31 races.

"She is not for sale at any price," said trainer Sidney Orton. "It's a lot of money to refuse but only once in a lifetime can you expect to have such a champion."

Nicknamed "Sadie" around the kennels, Disputed Rattler has a greater fan mail than many movie stars and leaped to popularity peak at London's Wembley Stadium recently by winning 11 to 12 open races against some of the country's crack racers.

The immortal Mick the Miller, most famous of all track greyhounds, was purchased for $9,000.

Have Ample Pitching

Reds Should Remain In Thick of Things

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK, April 26.—If the Pirates and Cubs stand up, the Reds are positive the National League will have a four-way race all the way along the route. Bill McKechnie & Co. can't see it as a walkover for the Cardinals.

All the Cincinnatis ask is that they be permitted to keep what they've got.

The Redlegs are minus two key men, Johnny VanderMeer and Lonnie Frey, and Bert Haas, but the latter had lost the third basing assignment to Steve Mesner before he departed last season.

As remarkable as No-Hit No-Run VanderMeer was there will be ample pitching as long as Deacon Will McKechnie retains Elmer Riddle, who let the Cubs down with three hits in his 1944 inaugural. The catch there is that Riddle already has been accepted by the army. The Georgian is 29, however, and modified military requirements may grant him a stay.

Frey was one of the more accomplished second basemen, but so is the 31-year-old Woodrow Wilson Williams, who, with the stylist, Eddie Miller, gives the Rhineland as slick a double play combination as there is in the land.

RIDDLE AND WALTERS

Manager McKechnie now has 30 players, 19 holdovers and more than a dozen 4-F's.

McKechnie has outstanding pitchers in Riddle and Bucky Walters. Ray Starr, just turned 38, is no slouch and left-handed Clyde Shoun is highly dependable. Joe Beggs is another finished workman, but will depart shortly to accept a commission in the navy. Ed Heusser is better than a green hand. Tom De La Cruz bagged 21 for Syracuse with an earned run average of 1.99. Arnold Carter, a southpaw, copped 14 for the same outfit with an ERA of 2.35. Bob Ferguson is a tall right-hander up from Birmingham. Bob Katz, who quit organized ball for the independent variety, looks very good.

Workhorse Ray Mueller will do practically all of the catching, but is backed by Len Rice, Al Lakeman and Joe Just. Rice is up from the Syracuse farm.

Hard luck has trailed Just like a G-man. Joe was rejected for military service because he suffered three brain concussions in baseball. He didn't play in 1943.

McCORMICK A BULWARK

Buck McCormick is the bulwark of a fine infield, which has a Grade A reservist in big Chuck Aleno.

Dain Clay gives the Reds speed in center field and after all these years Eric Tipton finally settles the club's unusual left field problem. Gee Walker is in right. Max Marshall is among those present. Estel Crabtree is a handy old bloke to have lying around. Mike Kosman, discharged by the Marine Corps, is good enough to be carried.

The Reds have serious intentions.

What to Do With Germany

By LOUIS NIZER

Distressing Condition of Europe After War Will Require Generous Healing Hand; Boys and Girls of Germany Must Be Re-educated; German Betterment Will Help Her Victims.

Chapter IX.

Economic disarmament must include agrarian reform and the breaking up of the Prussian feudal estates. In 1879 Bismarck announced his famous "compact of iron and rye." This was a high protective policy which aligned heavy industry and the feudal landowners against the middle classes. To justify this shift in political power, resort was once more made to agrarian mysticism—the holiness of German soil. This was contrasted with the "godless" Social Democratic movement and the "Jewish" capitalist traders. Thus, long before Hitler and the Nazis, the superstition of the superiority of German soil and blood was offered to protect the Junkers, the landowning aristocratic and military caste of Prussia.

The Junkers remained the ruling class throughout both World Wars. It controlled legislation and joined with Hitler to express Prussian arrogance towards the world. This landowning class, the fanatical sponsors of super-nationalism, must be smashed. It should not be permitted to survive, as it did after the defeat of the Kaiser. Its estates must be confiscated and distributed to the peasants in small parcels. "Agrarian reform, redistribution of the land, such as occurred in several European countries after the last war, is an essential basis for democracy and peaceful co-operation." (J. B. Condliffe, Agenda for A Post-War World.)

Immediately after the armistice, the distressful condition of Europe will require a generous healing hand. It is estimated that 9.268.138 tons of concentrated foods will have to be sent to Europe in the first six months after the armistics, if any kind of order is to be maintained. Repayment can be made by the recipients in the form of raw materials and other products which the food-producing countries may require. Assuming that this aid becomes a gift, we should not be deterred. Even on selfish terms, and entirely apart from humanitarian considerations, it will be cheaper than the expensive block-busters we delivered free over Hamburg, or the millions of tons of gasoline our jeeps consumed in Africa.

AID CHILDREN FIRST

In Germany, children should be aided first, and pains should be taken through the planting of the British, American and other United Nations flags and the distribution of printed material, to advise them that it is the democracies which bring them succor. For no opportunity should be lost, as we shall soon see, to begin the re-education as well as the disarmament of the German people.

Under the close supervision of an international commission, Germany's economic condition could be ameliorated and improved while at the same time she would be obliged to make restitution. Leading economists believe that greater wealth as well as reparations can be created by intelligent co-ordination. Germany's standard of living has been so low since Hitler's rise that it will be possible to improve it, despite reparation and restitution. Under proper guidance, Germany could produce beyond its increased needs and use the surplus to repair the damage done.

DYNAMIC SOLUTION

Economic forces are so uncertain and at times so surprising, their consequences so involved and unforeseeable, that static and definite plans to deal with them are bound to be defective. A dynamic solution must be sought, one that adjusts itself to progress. Who knows what new industries will arise? Who knows what new secrets advancing chemical knowledge will unfold? And how can we judge in advance what newly developed materials or products will be required, or in what parts of the world they will happen to be situated? Who can say what new technological processes will have to be financed, and whether it may not be advisable to exploit German efficiency and skill along peaceful lines by setting up some of these new industries in her midst for the benefit of world economy as well as her own?

An international board of directors (similar to the World Investment Commission and World Investment Bank proposed by Professor Eugene Staley) to consider these business opportunities, could bring them to fruition. No supplanting of private enterprise is here contemplated. On the contrary, it should be encouraged. Its initiative and efficiency are not easily maintained by governmental bodies. But the very power it generates must be channeled in the interest of society.

The controls in the domestic sphere, such as anti-trust laws and taxation devices, which we apply to protect the public interest, must similarily be applied in the enlarged realm of international economic activity.

Our attention to the German problem must not make us forgetful of our primary concern for her victims. But Germany is not an island unto herself. She is part of the economic mainland. Epidemics of economic disease cross national borders. Solution of the German problem will help solve the world's problem. But the relationship is bilateral. Complete solution of the German dilemma requires the absence of international economic anarchy. The responsibility is ours so to direct the economic forces as to derive from them the greatest well-being possible for all peoples, including the Germans. Isolationism is no more feasible in the economic than in the political realm.

SITUATION ALTERED

There was a time when the free movement of goods without controls was responsible for the greatest advance in the standards of living the world has ever known; and this period was also the longest stretch of comparative peace that man has known. But developments and complexities of growth have altered the situation.

Co-ordination can bring prosperity where unilateral conduct leaves only depression, Technological progress requires exchange of raw materials, and selfish national restrictions only come back to plague those who apply them.

LEAGUE REPORT

In 1939 the League of Nations adopted a report providing that its economic activities should be separated from its political activities. In other words the League Council was to surrender jurisdiction, so that states not belonging to the League could be invited to participate in its economic activities. The directing body of the economic section was to be made up of 24 state representatives and eight non-governmental members. The League Assembly appointed an organizing committee which met at the Hague in February, 1940.

This suspended plan may well be lifted from cold storage to serve as the nucleus of a super-national organization to co-ordinate international economics. Fine precept is afforled by the International Labor Organization, likewise voluntarily divorced from the League, and the Bank of International Settlements. Under such a supranational economic authority a Central Bank could be established, similar to the Federal Reserve Bank, with power to raise or lower interest rates simultaneously in all countries. Thus credit could be expanded or contracted in accordance with the best interests of all nations. There would be an "engineer" in charge of the project, and it would not be permitted to run aimlessly. Exchange rates could be stabilized and an international revolving fund could be utilized to check the distress resulting from the fluctuations of short-term credits.

Above all, quotas, tariffs and other restrictions on trade could be controlled. Tariffs would be encouraged for infant industries. The international body's jurisdiction would include control of cartels, which could then be transformed into instruments of international collaboration instead of international conspiracy.

The United Nations have subscribed to the Atlantic Charter but the Charter can be made effective only if it is implemented by some supra-national machinery. Such international co-operation will ultimately be thought as commonplace as our long-standing association with the League of Nations to prevent shipment of opium, to take measures against the spread of dread diseases, and to encourage economic research while the United States shunned the League, it became an active member of the International Labor Organization and of the Bank of International Settlements. As recently as November, 1941, thirty-two nations met in conference in the United States under the auspices of the International Labor Organization to discuss plans for economic and social reconstruction.

A similar body devoted to international economic problems is the real solution for a whole series of perplexing problems, of which the German is only one.

Liberal Members Attend Regular Caucus Meeting

OTTAWA, April 26—(CP)—Liberal members of parliament were present at a largely-attended caucus today which Prime Minister Mackenzie King said was simply a regular caucus meeting. Asked whether the caucus had considered his forthcoming trip to the United Kingdom to attend the conference of empire prime ministers, Mr. King said the caucus had not discussed the trip at all. It was believed the government's heavy legislative program for this session came under review.

Canucks Had Part In Burma Landing

OTTAWA, April 26—(CP)—Disclosure that Canadian airmen played a part in the transport of airborne troops dropped behind Japanese lines in Burma was made yesterday in the wartime information board publication entitled "Canada at War."

Reviewing air force activities, the publication said:

"Canadians from all parts of the nation played a large role in the successful operation by transport aircraft and the third tactical air force in Burma which placed Allied troops some 200 miles beyond the Japanese."

There was no elaboration, but a W.I.B. spokesman said cabled information from overseas indicated that R.C.A.F. men had piloted transports and tow-planes pulling the glider-borne troops behind the Japanese lines. This spokesman also indicated some of the escort planes had been manned by Canadians.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

Church and law authorities are united in the opinion that juvenile delinquency is on the increase across Canada. Could you suggest any action to counteract this tendency?

THE ANSWERS

KENNETH GRIGG, farmer: Too much spare time for youngsters is the thing to tackle. You don't hear very much of farm children running off, or going wild. I think that's because they just haven't got the time. People have invented so many things to make leisure time that they need something now to keep themselves busy.

• • •

MRS. S. LLOYD, housewife: Parents spend too much time away from home today to properly supervise their children. If you were to find a way to give adequate care to children in this class, I think child crime would decrease in the next few years. Another thing, today's parents seem easy on their children, who are being brought up according to a book someone recommended. The books just don't seem to take into account the child who is different.

• • •

A CHURCHMAN: A British bishop recently remarked, 'For the first time there has grown up a generation which has never known the Christian religion.' This was said at a meeting of a mother's union in Britain, and I feel it is even more applicable in Canada than in Britain. If we don't give leadership, how can we expect our children to follow?

Hon. S. E. Low Ill

Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer and minister of education, and leader of the Social Credit Association of Canada, is confined to his home with an attack of influenza, it was learned Wednesday. The minister, who has been away from work since Monday, is not expected back at his office until the beginning of the week.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Married Woman Must Forget Paramour

Her Life in General Will Be Ruined, Besides the Lives Of Her Husband and Children, If She Thinks of Outsider

DEAR MISS DIX: I married at 19 and have two grand girls, aged 8 and 10. No one could have a better or a more generous husband than I have. He gives me a beautiful home and every comfort and I have made him very happy all these years, but I have never been thrillingly in love with him.

Now I have met a man who attracts me so much that I am afraid, because I believe in God and the sanctity of marriage and I intend to live up to my marriage vows and do my duty as a wife and mother. I don't know much about this man with whom I have become so infatuated and he has never said anything to indicate how he feels about me, but sometimes one has a feeling that is so big that words aren't necessary.

I don't want to be disloyal even in my thoughts to my husband. Is there anything I can do to overcome the feeling I have for this man?

A READER

ANSWER: I think there is a lot you can do. You can quit thinking about him. You can refuse to indulge yourself in romantic day dreams about what might have been. There is no more untrue theory than the one that we cannot control our thoughts. We can. We can wrench them away from subjects that are folly and worse for us to dwell upon and force them into more wholesome channels. It takes courage and determination to do it, but it can be done.

You can ruin your life and the lives of your husband and children by continuing to think of this man whom you cannot have, or you can force yourself to forget him and have a happy normal life doing your duty by your family. And if duty lacks thrills, it brings the peace that comes of a clear conscience.

Life is mainly self-hypnotism, anyway. Practically any woman can think herself in love with any man if she really gives her mind to it. And my advice to you it to concentrate on your husband. It will pay you better in happiness.

MARRIED MAN

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a young sister who for the past few months has been running around with a married man. I have remonstrated with her and so have a lot of our crowd, and she promises to break off with him and then in a week she is back with him again. It will nearly kill my parents if they find out how she is acting. Can't you say something to her that will make her see how foolish she is behaving?

ANSWER: Though you spoke with the tongues of men and of angels it would have no effect upon a girl who is infatuated with a married man, for there is nothing you can say about the folly of it that she doesn't know. You can tell her than any married man who makes love to a young girl is a double-dyed cad because he is betraying two women, his wife to whom he is in honor bound and the girl whose chances of happiness he is destroying to gratify his own egotism.

You can tell her that any girl who runs around with a married man throws away her good name, because everybody puts the worst construction on it. And you can tell her that she is jeopardizing her chances of ever making a good marriage and having a home of her own, because few men care for the leavings of a married man. And you can tell her that when her Lothario gets tired of her he will ditch her just as he has done his wife. And it will all be to no avail.

HONORABLE THING

DEAR MISS DIX: How can I break off an engagement to the boy I am betrothed to without hurting his feelings? There is nobody else, but I have just decided he is not the one for me.

WORRIED

ANSWER: If your fiance is in love with you, it is bound to hurt his vanity, if not his heart, for you to break the engagement. But in any case it is the kind an honorable thing for you to do if you have decided not to marry him. Perhaps absence has cooled off his affections, too, and that he will be glad to be free.

In Baltimore recently I was pleased to see Col. Howard Vandersluis, winner of three championships on the Pacific coast last year. Col. Vandersluis has a couple of eagles on his shoulders—yes, he is a full colonel now.

I watched him play today's hand, and he did not make any mistakes. He was careful not to win the first club trick. If he had, he could hold off the second club, but the club stopper would be gone. West would win and immediately lead another club.

When East won the first club trick, he returned another club, dummy's ace won and a small heart led. East played low, the colonel won with the queen, led a small heart to dummy's ace and returned the third heart, thus establishing a good heart in his own hand. East found himself in the lead and played a diamond, the colonel put on the eight-spot and West's queen won. But West's clubs were not set. He had to lead another club, and then it was impossible to prevent the colonel from making nine tricks.

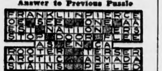
Answer to Previous Puzzle



Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Present day milk formulas for well children are relatively simple to prepare and well within the capacity of any mother to understand.

The most popular choices for a formula are either evaporated or fresh, boiled milk. The evaporated is easy to digest, has a stable cream content and added vitamin D. The fresh milk should be milk with a low cream content, be either pasteurized or raw, but always boiled for greater safety and ease of digestion.

It is very easy to transpose a fresh milk formula to an evaporated one or back again. If the formula given is an evaporated one, then double the number of ounces of the fresh milk formula and halve the number of ounces of water. Reverse the process if you intend to change from fresh to evaporated milk.

To illustrate, if the formula contains 10 ounces of evaporated milk and 20 ounces of water and you want to change to fresh milk, figure 20 of milk and 10 of water.

When a formula is first given to baby, it is best to figure the amount of milk conservatively. One and one-half ounces of fresh milk—three-fourths ounces of evaporated—for each pound of baby's weight. In a week or two or three, when the baby is used to the milk and digesting it well, the amount of milk may be increased to as much as two ounces of fresh milk per pound, or one ounce of evaporated milk per pound.

The water content of any formula is designed to supply the child with adequate fluids for the day and to make the milk more digestible. Usually the tiny baby can take from three to four ounces of formula at a feeding, so that the total content of the formula will be the amount of milk figured according to baby's age, plus the amount of water necessary to make the whole formula, plus the sugar needed.

The sugar is an essential part of the formula. Cows' milk lacks the sugar present in breast milk. So additional sugar not only makes the formula more nutritionally satisfying to the baby, but has a happy influence on the bowel activity. A formula without sufficient sugar, though plenty of milk, may result in hard, light and dry stools.

The amount of sugar usually is figured at about three tablespoons of corn syrup or six level tablespoons of maltose for each 10 pounds of baby's weight. When baby is taking 32 ounces of fresh or 16 ounces of evaporated, and about four tablespoons of corn syrup or eight of maltose, that is the maximum formula. From then on water and sugar are decreased until only undiluted, unsweetened milk is given.

Our leaflet, "Sweet Milk Formulas," helps to make this explanation clearer. It may be had by sending a 4-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper, with your request for it.

CANNIBALS DO NOT LIVE ON HUMAN FLESH

During recent travels in Africa I met several noted anthropologists who were studying cannibalism. They informed me that they found no evidence that cannibal peoples ate human flesh as food, but that they ate it only for purposes of ritual. They believe that by eating a taste of an enemy's flesh they became endowed with his strength. Various festivals call for human flesh, but the cannibals do not eat this for nourishment as is commonly believed. Usually only a little taste of the flesh is used, rather than eating the whole body. It's ritual, not food.

500,000 Nazis Killed in Reds' Southern Drive

By ROBERT MUSEL
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

LONDON, April 26—Moscow reported today that the Red army killed or captured 500,000 Germans in its great southern offensive and now is bent on dealing the final blow to the enemy, "not on territory of his vassal states but on the soil of Germany itself."

A summary of the campaign which began last July said that the Germans had been driven from four-fifths of the territory they occupied in Russia and the Red army now aims at completing the liberation and pressing on to strike the death blows in co-operation with the Allies.

HELPS ALLIED INVASION

The military review, broadcast while the Russians were massing for a respumption of the battle on the eastern front, was made by Daniel Z. Manuilsky, executive of the Communist party.

"By its victories the Red army has in every way made easier for our allies the possibility of opening large scale military operations in the west and south—which is being awaited with impatience by the whole world," Manuilsky said.

He said the Red army would press on to Germany "to achieve in co-operation with the Allies the routing of the German Fascist army and the capitulation of Fascist Germany in close co-operation with the Allies."

Proposes Leading Nations Combine To Maintain Order

NEW YORK, April 26—(AP)—Criticizing the democratic administration on the grounds that it had permitted the United States to be caught "shamefully unprepared" for war, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio proposedy last night that the United States join with Great Britain, Russia and China to maintain post-war order until a formal peace can be written.

In an address before the Ohio State society here, the Republican presidential candidate asserted that the president, backed by congress, should insist upon the retention by the United States of certain strategic military, naval and air bases which have been constructed with American money in other parts of the world.

Canuck Spitfires Bag Five Planes

LONDON, April 26—(CP)—Sweeping a path in advance of American heavy bombers which raided German airfields in France yesterday, R.C.A.F. Spitfires destroyed five enemy planes. Three Spitfires were lost.

The Spitfires surprised six Focke-Wulf 190's near Laon, about 50 miles northeast of Paris, and five of the Germans were shot down in a brisk fight that was all over in three minutes.

The fliers were led by Wing Cmdr. J. E. Johnson, an Englishman, who bagged two himself to raise his personal score to 27 "kills."

Flt. Lt. Don Walz, Moose Jaw, Sask., and Flt. Lt. Hugh Russell, Westmount, Que., got one each. PO. J. W. Fleming and FO. Lloyd Plummer, both of Toronto, shared in destruction of the fifth.

The action was so swift that some members of the squadron didn't even get a chance for a shot.

Edmonton Airman Is Married In Sacred Heart Church, Regina

REGINA, April 26—Sacred Heart church, here, was the scene of the wedding on Monday, April 17, at 9 a.m., of Kathryn Christena MacIsaac, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. MacIsaac, Regina, and J. Gale Freeman, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis C. Freeman, Edmonton. The Rev. Father J. J. Walsh officiated.

Mrs. O. D. Young played the wedding march from Lohengrin. Lighted candelabra, white stocks and snapdragons decorated the altar, and the guest pews were tied with white tulle bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of brocaded satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice and a full-flared skirt. The long tight sleeves of the bodice ended in lily pointed cuffs and the neckline was sweetheart style. Her fingertip veil was of white net and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Her only ornament was an onyx cross, a gift from her grandmother. She carried a white prayer book.

Miss Kathleen Shepherd was bridesmaid and wore a floor-length gown of sky blue sheer, a chapel veil of pink net and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Bernard MacIsaac was best man and ushers were George Shepherd and Albert Paget.

LUNCHEON

After the ceremony a luncheon for 30 guests was held at the Drake hotel, where the bride's table was centred with a tiered wedding cake banked in pink tulle and topped with Shasta daisies. Toast to the bride was proposed by the Hon. Mr. Justice MacDonald.

Mrs. MacIsaac, mother of the bride, was smartly attired in sea green crepe, large navy sailor and matching accessories. Her corsage was of Talisman roses.

Later in the day the couple left for Edmonton, where the honeymoon is being spent, the bride travelling in a black tailored suit, matching Chesterfield coat, a hat of white straw, and a shoulder corsage of pink roses and lily of the valley.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Charles Webster, bride's aunt, from Saskatoon; Albert Paget, Wilcox, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Farrell represented the bridegroom's parents, who were unable to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman will make their home in Regina.

London Dreams Of New Clothes

By MARGARET ECKER

LONDON, April 26—(CP)—It's spring in London and women's fancies are turning to thoughts of clothes.

Coupons and utility fashions won't leave much room for frills but the girls are dreaming of the day when it's over and they can buy a gay April frock without warrying about how it will look in November.

Fashion forecasters and designers with time on their hands are crystal gazing for costumes of the post-war future.

The fashion expert, James Laver, says girdles, usually are tossed to the winds after a war, so he expects the post-war girls to flow with curves all their own. Waists, after the Napoleonic wars and the Great War went way up or down, but never hit the normal. The last war's round the hips line was so bad that Mr. Laver thinks waistlines will hit the high spots this time.

Skirts, according to prediction, will be short and scanty, women will cut off their hair (they did it seems in 1815 and 1920), hats will be close fitting and colors will be pastel.

Norman Hartnell, who designed the queen's wardrobe for the Royal Visit to Canada doesn't agree, but thinks English women at least will swing back to high fashion, particularly for state occasions as soon as they discard their uniforms.

DAY NURSERY
AND
Edmonton College, Inc.

When the acute need of Day Nursery care for small children of war-working mothers developed in Edmonton soon after the outbreak of war, Edmonton College met the situation by providing both Day and Evening Accommodation. As with its Kindergarten Children, Day Nursery Kiddies were transported to and from their homes in cozy vans, and on the average 200 miles per day has been driven to cover all sections of the city. Children are served a hot noon lunch and are carefully supervised on the large college lawns at 106th Street and 100th Avenue, swings, teeters, slides and sand piles and games being provided. All nursery children, unless too young to talk are given Kindergarten training in singing, drills, marches, cutouts, plasticene, dancing, etc. In the 1943 Musical Festival competitions, the Rhythm Band of Edmonton College won highest award in its class. Nursery Kindergarten kiddies pass into the grades under qualified teachers, and may follow the course as far as desired. For nearly two years additional floor space has been needed, and the city authorities soon became interested in the situation, and city, provincial and federal officials have inspected the College Nursery.

Edmonton College was founded in 1921 by its president, David Elston, and has offered courses in Academic to end of Grade XII, Music, Art, Journalism, Civil Service, Commercial Languages, Dancing, etc. The College is undenominational and has never received any financial or other assistance from any organization or individual. Recently Edmonton College approached the City Council with a request for a grant of about one-half of the cost of necessary enlargement of the College building, the balance to be met by the institution, in order to meet fully the Day Nursery situation. Principal Elston was head of the largest department of Alberta's largest college for seven consecutive years before the first great war, and has done much work for the Department of Education and for the Attorney-General's Department as an expert on handwriting. He was engaged to prepare special finishing courses for Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment Schools of Alberta, opened by Federal Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment following the first great war.

Edmonton RCAF Officer Weds Marjorie Stordy

VANCOUVER, April 26—Ryerson United church was illuminated by candlelight for the marriage Saturday evening at which Marjorie Pauline, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Stordy, became the bride of Flying Officer Donald Alexander McLeod, R.C.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander McLeod of Edmonton.

The Rev. E. D. Braden, D.D., officiated at the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, where H. B. MacLean proposed the toast to the bride.

Miss Jean Stordy was in attendance on her sister, who attended York House School and is a graduate of the Vancouver General hospital. She has latterly been on the staff of Shaughnessy military hospital.

The bride's five-year-old cousin, Helen Janet Sturdy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Sturdy, of Chilliwack, was flower-girl. P/O Harry Barber, R.C.A.F., of Edmonton, was best man and ushers were P/O Ed. Hodgson, R.C.A. and Sgt. Frank Moule.

VICTORIAN MODE

Hooped in Victorian pannier mode was the bride's long-sleeved avalon lace gown, over which cascaded the circular waist-length veil appliqued in the lace motifs and held by a lace coronet. Vivid note of color were the American Beauty roses, combined with valley lilies, in the bridal bouquet.

Nasturtium nuances appeared in the ensemble of Miss Jean Stordy. Her Bianchini crepe frock in sunburst shade, styled on similar lines to the bridal model, was accented by a brown mohair melon-shaped half-hat, clustered in Talisman and tea roses tones, while in her bouquet were gerbera and blue iris.

Leaf green marquisette over daffodil yellow fashioned the flower-girl's frock and Dutch bonnet wreathed in forget-me-nots. She carried a colonial nosegay of spring flowers.

The going-away costume of Saturday night's bride was a three-piece ensemble of French blue boucle, the topcoat collared in blue fox. Her halo hat in fancy mohair and accessories were cocoa brown.

Before the Magistrate

Richard Assaly, charged with driving an auto while disqualified from so-doing, was informed by Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C., Wednesday morning that the penalty for such an act provided a term of imprisonment together with a heavy fine. Warned that should he return to this court he would be sent to jail, he was fined $15 and costs or ordered to spend 21 days in jail. On several occasions since his license was cancelled in January last, the accused had been observed driving an automobile, the court was told.

• • •

Russell G. Garnett, who had pleaded guilty to theft of $1.700 worth of travellers' cheques, entered a similar plea when charged with house breaking and theft of articles valued at $300. His cases were remanded until May 3.

• • •

Harold Mattson, charged with being in possession of a canvas sheet, property of persons unknown, was sentenced to 30 days with hard labor.

• • •

Glen Chamberlain, who got medical attention for a sore foot and later failed to report for work at a packing plant as directed by selective service officers, pleaded guilty to vagrancy and was sentenced to three months with hard labor.

• • •

Melville D. L. Hamilton, 21-year-old Torontonian, pleaded guilty to failure to notify proper authorities of his change of address and said he couldn't find the type of construction work he wanted. His case was remanded to Friday.

• • •

William Gawalko, charged with assault, was fined $5 or seven days.

• • •

Charged with breach of the city bylaw concerning no smoking in street cars, Alexander C. Frame appeared before Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C., Tuesday afternoon. He was fined $1.

• • •

Similar penalties were imposed upon four owners of dogs who had permitted their animals to run at large. For allowing his poultry to be at large, a man was assessed $3 or five days.

• • •

John Exman, charged with driving at an unreasonable speed, first told the court he was a stranger in the city, and then admitted he had been here for more than a year. A police officer informed the court that the accused had gone through a school zone while children were crossing the streets and after he had passed several other cars, at an estimated speed of 35 miles an hour. He was fined $25 or 35 days.

• • •

William Nicholls, Edmonton, was fined $3 or five days, while Marvin H. Albert, Leduc, was assessed $15 or 21 days, on charges of breach of the Motor Vehicle Act.

Three persons, of 10 previously charged with keeping gaming houses, pleaded not guilty, through counsel. They were Ralph Cooper, Max Phillit and William Hoadley.

Seven others pleaded not guilty, also through counsel, to being frequenters. They were Noel Forrest, Harry Morton, Joseph Mezier, Herbert Mayo, Thomas Cairns, John Jacob and Mike Arnson.

Another man, Andrew Anderson, was also charged with keeping a gaming house, before the case was again remanded to Thursday morning.

• • •

John R. Nikiforuk, Edmonton, was sentenced to spend 18 months in jail on no less than nine charges of shop breaking, theft of auto, theft of naval uniform and common theft.

Nikiforuk, who escaped from the South Side police after recent arrest, and who broke into three service stations the same night, was told that everything possible had been done for him, and that now, there was nothing left but a jail term facing him.

• • •

Lorne Dingman elected to be tried by supreme court. Further thought was given to the matter and he said he would spare the court some expense and pleated guilty to theft of a Salvation Army truck, the breaking into a school near Viking and the theft of another truck at Vegreville. He also leadped guilty to three charges of common theft. He was remanded for one week for sentence.

• • •

William Sheinbine, who earlier pleaded guilty to illegal possession of drugs, was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment plus an additional three months, were a fine of $300 and costs not paid.

Margaret Randall, found guilty of a similar charge, was sentenced to six months at Fort Saskatchewan, plus a fine of $200 and costs or an additional three months as an alternative.

At the close wheat was unchanged to ⅛ higher, oats were ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, and rye was ⅛ lower to ½ higher. September barley was ⅛ lower at 1.19⅛.

Exports Feature Winnipeg Wheat

WINNIPEG, April 26—(CP)—Wheat export business involved 1,200,000 bushels today on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

United States Commodity Credit Corporation was credited with taking 300,000 bushels No. 4 Northern for shipment from the Lakehead and 700,000 bushels Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4 Northern for shipment direct from Western Canada points.

Other purchases were credited to United Kingdom, which took 200,000 bushels No. 1 Northern.

Reports of low moisture conditions throughout the West imparted strength to the October rye contract, but May and July options were under previous closing levels most of the session.

The day's close was ⅛-⅞ higher with May at $1.32, July $1.31¼ and October $1.28¾.

Operation Canadian Oil Companies Ltd. Satisfactory in 1943

TORONTO, April 26—(CP)—Operation of Canadian Oil Companies Limited during 1943 were satisfactory in spite of difficulties, John Irwin, president, told the annual meeting here today. Difficulties facing the company had continued in 1944, he said, and showed possibility of becoming even more acute because of requirements in connection with invasion of western Europe which would place added burdens on the petroleum industry.

School Board Votes $50,000 For War Bonds

The Edmonton Pubic School Board authorized the investment of $50,000 of the board's surplus funds in Canada's Sixth Victory Loan at a meeting Tuesday night.

The statement of expenditure and revenue for January, February and March of this year, given at the meeting, revealed a total of $368,993.49 has been expended to date, as compared with $369,239.29 in the same period in 1943. Appropriation for the year 1944 is $1,493,889.00 as compared with $1,464,400.00 for 1943.

SCHOOL ENDORSED

The board received a letter from the King Edward Park and District Community League endorsing the action of the Federation of Community Leagues in approving the principle of a "composite" high school for the city.

A request for improvement in fire escapes and other features of the King Edward Park school was referred to the property committee for further study.

The Canadian Youth Commission wrote the board requesting use of McKay Avenue school for a one-day conference to be held May 12. The request was granted.

The board approved the sale of real estate at Lac La Biche and in the city from which the board is entitled to one-quarter of the annual revenue derived from the property. This was done on the recommendation of executors of the estate.

Superintendent of plant, J. M. McAfee, submitted a report on condition of grounds at McDougall school, as requested by the property committee, which recently received a request regarding this from the principal of the school. Board members expressed the desire to do something to improve, not only this school ground, but all others in the city. The matter was referred to the property committee for proposals regarding a general plan of beautification for all city schools, to be attempted after the war.

FESTIVALS SUCCESS

R. S. Sheppard, superintendent of schools, reported that the first in the series of inter-school festivals staged on the South Side last week had been a success.

Mr. Sheppard said several of the desirable features of the event which he had noted had been the interest of parents, opportunity for all pupils to participate and compare standards of work in their own school with that of others, as well as to allow teachers to compare methods of teaching. Also they provided the public a chance to see the type of work being done in the schools today.

Recommendation that the school board donate $200 to meet possible small expenditures in connection with the series of festivals was agreed to by the board.

What Council Did

Frances James Wins Applause For Vocal Art

Frances James, soprano, under the auspices of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, appeared in concert Tuesday night at McDougall Auditorium. It was the first time she had sung here, although her voice was not unknown to those who follow radio and electrical transcriptions.

Tall, slender and statuesque, Miss James proved pleasing to eye and ear alike.

She was enthusiastically received by the audience. The enthusiasm was well deserved on account of the splendid artistry displayed throughout. The merit of the concert was worthy of a larger audience.

At all times Miss James revealed tones that were pleasant to hear. Her phrasing, mature musicianship and diction call for much praise. As an interpretive artist she revealed unusual gifts.

She is fortunate in possessing a versatility of approach, and warmth of temperament which enabled her to bring to the audience the proper moods for the songs, and to project their messages with positiveness, conviction and sincerity.

Her program was widely varied ranging from Monteverde and Handel to contemporary composers.

Included among her numbers were Let Me Languish No Longer, Monteverde; O Sleep Why Dost Thou Leave Me? and Silent Worship, Handel; Creation's Hymn, Beethoven; Prayer, Schumann; In the Spring and Cradle Song, Schubert; Love and the Lilac Flower, Brahms; Orpheus With His Lute, Suilllivan; The Brook, Dolores; Songs My Mother Taught Me, Dvorak; In the Seraglio's Garden, Newmark; Here Beauty Dwells, Rachmaninoff; A Dream, Grieg; Her Wondrous Hair and a Water Color, Debussy; Psyche, Paladilhe; Song of Sorrow, Duparc; The Crystal Spring, Ma Fille, Veux-Tu un Bouquet, Spirits of Sunlight, O Can Ye Sew Cushions and In the Garden Where the Praties Grow, all arranged melodies.

Among her encores was Gershwin's Summertime.

At the piano was John Newmark.

He gave Miss James excellent support and was called upon to share in the applause. His song In the Seraglio's Garden, which received its first performance was able to stand up under comparison with the glittering company in which it was placed.—J.O.

Views on City Beautification Given Council

Two communications relative to the beautification of the approach to the Macdonald hotel, one from the Edmonton Taxpayers' Protective Association, the other from the Soroptimist club of Edmonton, were received as information, and ordered referred to the city commissioners.

The communication from the Taxpayers' Protective Association reads:

"The executive of the Taxpayers' Protective Association, at a recent meeting, unanimously expressed their opinion that the city should not be stampeded into taking any immediate action regarding the proposed development of the property north of the Macdonald hotel which would involve the city in a large initial expenditure and subsequent loss of revenue from this property.

"Some widening of 100 street might be advantageous. We think that the desirability of an open park in this area is debateable, and we believe the C.N.R. should bear the major portion of the cost of any improvements carried out at this corner. The city has already made a large contribution toward improving the site of railway property by reserving a considerable area in the vicinity of the C.N.R. station.

"Regarding the suggestion of some advocates of the proposed scheme that our boys overseas would be interested in this matter, we have no hesitation in saying that their first interest would be the winning of the war and we believe they would prefer that, for the time being, we concentrate our efforts toward that end in order to speed the day of victory and the day of their safe return to their families and homes."

The Soroptimist club resolution said that the improvement to the surroundings of the Macdonald hotel were long overdue and that its members definitely approved expenditure of civic funds for this purpose.

League Protests Dirt Fill Scheme

Opposition to the replacing of the bridge on Ada Boulevard between 66 street and 65 avenue with a dirt fill was expressed Tuesday at city council meeting by members of the Highlands Community League and Highlands citizens.

They are asking that the present bridge be replaced by one of concrete structure, and submitted that the use of a dirt fill at this point would destroy one of the city's most beautiful ravines.

Answering members of council, Commissioner R. J. Gibb said the dirt fill was decided on because it was 50 per cent cheaper than the reconstruction of a bridge. He said the present bridge was dangerously unsafe.

Council members ordered that work on the proposed fill be held up until a further report on the project has been received from the city commissioners, and that pending the submission of the report that council members be given the opportunity of viewing the site of the proposed dirt fill.

When you decide this Victory Bond Question

BEFORE you give your answer to the Victory Bond salesman, look that soldier in the eye. Up there in the thick of the battle he has heard the ping of bullets round his head. As shells screeched towards him and the crash of their explosion shook the earth, he stuck to his machine gun and did his job. What answer are you going to give to him?

Look that sailor in the eye. When the roar of dive bombers swelled into a deafening shriek and the inferno of bombs broke loose around him, he stuck to his post. Does the bond you are buying represent an effort equal to his? Look that airman in the eye. When the crunch of flak broke loose around him and machine gun bullets tore through his fuselage, he pressed on to his target. What answer will you give to the men who fight above the clouds?

This is an opportunity for you to show how much you appreciate what these young men are doing for you. Back the Sixth Victory Loan with the biggest purchase you have ever made.

34 Nurses Graduated From General Hospital; Receive Pins, Diplomas

"I solemnly pledge myself before God and in the presence of this assembly to pass my life in purity and to practice my profession faithfully"—thus did 34 nurses of the Edmonton General Hospital School of Nursing pledge themselves to their profession by taking the Florence Nightingale pledge at the graduating exercises in Convocation Hall, University of Alberta, Tuesday evening. Rev. P. J. O'Reilly, D.D., administered the pledge.

Dr. J. J. Ower, chairman of the medical board, in his chairman's address, welcomed proud parents and friends of the nurses, who filled the hall to capacity. Training hours are long and strenuous, he said, because the care of the sick goes on at all times.

Dr. Ower said the General hospital acts in a dual capacity. It cares for all types of cases and is also one of a group of hospitals treating tuberculosis cases. The nurses have had special training in the treatment of this disease.

"Keep the ideals of the Florence Nightingale pledge in mind and live them in your daily lives," urged His Grace Most Rev. John Hugh MacDonald, D.D., Archbishop of Edmonton.

USE INFLUENCE

The speaker usged the girls to make use of their influence in the community as nurses to spread cleanliness and health habits. He thought the nurses could do more in this way. They do not know their strength, he said, and urged them to give leadership as nurses.

Archbishop MacDonald gave sincere thanks to the parents, saying the small "token" a nurse is given during her training must be supplemented by the parent, sometimes at a sacrifice.

Commencement exercises mean the start of life out in the world, the speaker said, and he hoped that, while the nurses had received a fine theoritical and practical education from the Grey Nuns, they would continue their education. "Nurses cannot be too well educated," he declared.

He urged the girls to remember their Christian background and to look for awards higher up. "Never turn down a call to care for the poor because of lack of monetary remuneration," he added.

The archbishop thanked the Grey Nuns for the training they have given, not only now but in the past 100 years during which time they have been here.

ARE CONGRATULATED

Crisp in their white uniforms and caps, and carrying deep red roses, the nurses were congratulated upon the completion of their three years' training by Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., attorney general of the province.

Tracing the origin of nursing, which the speaker said had its beginning in Christian charity, he told of the nursing profession increasing in popularity by catastrophes and of its progress through the development of science.

"No other profession is more deserving of honor," Mr Maynard declared, "and in the days to come the nurse will gain in ever increasing importance, particularly in these immediate times. There is opportunity for every nurse to render one of the greatest services of all."

Mrs. Marie Adkisson sang two solos.

Rev. Father O'Reilly said that in the 33 years existence of the General hospital 685 nurses have been graduated. Although the standards of the hospital are very high there have been enough nurses to train for the care of the sick. He thanked the parents for giving the girls a fine Christian background, which in his associations with them he has found each one possesses.

Prof. J. M. MacEachran, University of Alberta, told of the advantage to the nursing profession of its co-operation with the university in giving the nurses a fuller training. The university tries to grasp the great principles of life and to impart them to the students. Nurses get both a theoretical and practical training, he said.

He congratulated the nurses upon the completion of their training, saying he hoped they will carry on the spirit of the hospital, university and the Roman Catholic church. "I hope you will find health and happiness in ministering health and happiness," he said.

HONORARY AWARDS

Dr. G. M. Little, medical health officer, presented the honorary awards in the place of His Worship Mayor J. W. Fry, who was unable to attend. The general proficiency prize presented by the Alumnae Association of the Edmonton General hospital, was won by Miss Liana Marano. The prize for the highest average in three years' theory, presented by Sister Superior O'Grady, General hospital, was awarded to Miss Beatrice Chinn, and that in bedside nursing, presented by the staff of supervisors, was won by Miss Doreen Flynn.

Rev. G. L. Green sang two solos, "Bless This House," and "Sailor man."

Dr. Little congratulated the class upon completing its training saying "After graduation comes many responsibilities, and re-inforcements to the nursing profession will be very welcome."

His Excellency Most Rev. John Hugh MacDonald, D.D., Archbishop of Edmonton, presented pins and diplomas.

"We were eager for the end of our training but now we find we are beginning our profession", declared Miss Bernice DeVore, giving the valedictory. She continued, in saying good-bye we express gratitude to God, parents, the Grey Nuns, clergy, doctors, instructors and supervisors. The girls have lived in harmony she said and made friendships which will last. They are looking to the immediate years and expect to play an important part, at home and on the battle fields."

Madame I. Pepin Olsen played the processional and the recessional.

The graduating class includes: Bernice Devore, Lilllan Duguid, Jeanette Yelle, Juliette Landreville, Catherine McCorkell, Georgina Ruzicka, Dorothy Dann, Therese Tousignant, Helen Mayhew, Mildred Pickard, Mary Zukiwsky, Thelma Johnson, Kathleen Wilnechenko, Grace Yeager, Eileen Bolsh, Marie Slavik, Margaret Brooks, Marguerite Choquette, Josephine Jevne, Marie Laharty, Liana Marano, Beatrice Chinn, Veda Shobe, Elizabeth Anderson, Lydia Singer, Hallie Hartman, Margaret Voros, Patricia Harle, Pauline Graham, Hazel Smith, Amelia Chorney, Doris Flynn, Doreen Flynn, Margarette Anderson.

Serves Overseas

Sgt. Navigator T. Wesley Kitchen, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kitchen, of 12832 121 street, who is on overseas duty with the R.C.A.F. A former carrier boy for The Edmonton Bulletin, he was a member of the guard of honor during the visit here June 2, 1939, of the King and Queen. He attended Calder, Victoria and Strathcona High schools. Enlisting in the Air Force early in 1943, he trained at Saskatoon, Toronto, Ancienne Lorett, Que., and received his wings at Three Rivers.
